Public Radio's Friends Say Foes Fear Cash Loss

By LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska's commercial broadcasters are conjuring up images of "thought control" and "big brother" in their fight against public radio.

Also, broadcasters insist, Nebraskans don't want and can't afford public radio.

Proponents of public radio have replies for all those challenges, and they throw at least one rock of their own: that commercial broadcasters are afraid they will lose some of their audience.

Public radio, broadcast by 181 stations in 43 states, provides an alternative to commercial radio's diet of "entertainment and escapism," with a little information tossed in, said James Johnson. He is general manager of the four-station Nebraska Television Network and a member of the three-man Nebraska Educational Television Commission public radio subcommittee.

It 'Expands The Consciousness'

Public radio offers instructional, cultural, dramatic, public affairs, news and children's programming which "expands the consciousness," Johnson says.

A study, paid for with a $25,000 federal grant and presented to the NETV commission last October, reported that public radio is feasible and that it should be launched soon.

The need for speed, the study said, is because other states are competing for the limited number of FM channels available, and because each year of delay means a 15% increase in construction costs.

The consultants, Robertson Associates of Punta Gorda, Fla., said that establishing a statewide public radio system would cost $1,327,309, or 24 cents per Nebraskan. That figure is based on receiving 75% support from the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The network would cost $827,120 annually to operate, or one cent per week per Nebraskan.

James Robertson, former head of National Public Radio, directs the consultant firm that found in favor of public radio.

Commission Waits A Year

Rather than push for public radio immediately, the NETV commission decided to wait a year before asking the Legislature for funding.

Broadcasters say that decision was made because the commission is waiting for a favorable legislative climate. "They'd have gotten killed" if a new, expensive program was requested now, commercial broadcasters say.

Richard Chapin, president of Stuart Enterprises which owns radio station KFOR, among others, attacks the cost of public radio as being too high to satisfy a "pitifully small minority."

Chapin is spearheading the NBA campaign to defeat public radio.

"There has been no great public demand, hue and cry" for public radio, Chapin charged.

Public radio's proponents admit that public radio is for a select audience.

Statement Indirectly Supported

And in a statement that indirectly supports commercial broadcaster's claims, NETV public radio subcommittee member James Johnson said:

"The general public is not interested in being educated or informed." Rather it is interested in "entertainment, escapism and stimulation through popular music."

The NBA doesn't feel taxpayers should be confronted with any more taxation "to please "a minimal audience," said Joe Stavas of Columbus, NBA president who said that the multimillion-dollar NETV network nabs about 1-2% of the watching audience.

However, taxpayers support other services — public libraries, the University of Nebraska — that are used by a small minority of citizens.

Broadcasters also oppose public radio on the grounds that, since governmental grants aid construction, operation and programming of public radio, "big brother" could exert "thought control" by dictating the viewpoints aired, Chapin said.

Safeguards could be built in for public radio much as they have been for public television where, generally speaking, one agency provides the funding while another distributes programs and coordinates services to networks.

The NBA's opposition is due to a lack of awareness of what public radio is all about, said William Ramsay, ETV engineering director.

He said commercial broadcasters in other states have recognized that public radio can do "a great many things that it is commercially not possible to do "because advertisers want programming that will attract the largest audience possible.

No Threat To Commercial Radio

"Public radio will never replace" and poses no threat to commercial radio, said Dr. Craig Fullerton Omaha Public Schools assistant superintendent for instructional services which includes the school system's radio station, one of several local "public" radio stations in the state.

"We don't fear public radio," said an emphatic Chapin. Nebraska commercial broadcasters are not worried that their revenues or audiences will be eroded by public radio, Stavas said. That statement conflicts with an earlier remark by the NBA president that broadcasters fear just that.

Because of their open hostility to public radio, the broadcasters are made to look like the bad guys, Chapin said.

It was natural, he said, that the issue "crystallized" with the commercial broadcasters "because we know it's a boondoggle. Were the only people in the state who understand what's happening."

Chapin also said "we're the worst group in the world to be fighting this (public radio) because we have a vested interest. We look like spoilsports who are going to have our suckers taken away from us."

Party Burglarized By FBI

Washington (AP) — The FBI burglarized offices of the Socialist Workers Party and its youth affiliate as often as twice a month for a total of 92 post-midnight raids in the early 1960's, according to newly disclosed FBI documents.

Two other FBI burglaries were listed as having been conducted at the homes of persons identified in the documents as members of the SWP in Hamden, Conn., and Los Angeles.

However, the Hamden, Conn., couple named in the documents denied ever having been members of the party and said their home had not been burglarized to their knowledge.

The documents show that FBI agents photographed at least 8,700 pages of party files, including financial records and personal letters, during the break-ins. It was not clear from the FBI files whether agents only photographed material or whether they physically removed some papers.

Complying with a court order, the FBI gave the party 354 pages of files describing burglaries at the party's New York offices and the Young Socialist Alliance and two reported housebreaking incidents.

The files were provided in response to the party's specific request for "all documents relating to any intelligence-gathering burglaries perpetrated by or with the knowledge of the FBI against the SWP, the YSA or anyone suspected to be a leader or member thereof."

The party is suing the FBI and other government agencies for $27 million in damages for allegedly unconstitutional harassment of legal political activities. The Political Rights Defense Fund, financing the lawsuit, made the documents available to The Associated Press.

FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley, meanwhile, said recent allegations against the FBI have damaged but not destroyed public confidence in it.

The material suggests burglaries were conducted far more often than FBI officials previously have acknowledged.

The FBI told the Senate Intelligence Committee in September it conducted 238 burglaries against 14 domestic organizations in a 26-year period ending in April 1968. The figures indicate that, on the average, the FBI was burglarizing each organization once every 18 months.

Man Dies, 4 Firemen Injured In Hotel Fire

By DEAN TERRILL

Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Nelson — "One of the tragic things is that most of these folks are old and without families. I don't know where they'll go now ..."

Mixed with Orin Spurling's sadness was gratitude that he and his wife and eight of their roomers escaped. But resident Alfred Meyer, 68, perished in a fire which destroyed the old two-story Spurling Hotel early Sunday morning.

And four firefighters trying to get to Meyer's body were injured when a brick wall collapsed. Firemen from Superior, Ruskin, Davenport and Edgar joined Nelson's own volunteers in an eight-hour battle against the wind-whipped blaze.

One of the injured was former major league baseballer Russ Snyder, who suffered bruises and torn ligaments. He was treated at a Hastings hospital and released.

Superior volunteers Vic Springer and Dennis Damrow were hospitalized at Superior with a possible shoulder fracture and multiple bruises, respectively. Both were described in "good condition." Mike Honeycutt of Nelson, who aided in the effort although he is not a fireman, suffered a serious hand cut.

"We had at least 100 men helping fight the fire," said Nelson Chief Howard Olson. "We were lucky there weren't more injuries. There was no warning whatsoever before the wall gave way."

Both Olson and Deputy State Fire Marshal Dallas Jugert of Hastings declined to speculate on the cause of the fire. However, it apparently originated in Meyer's first-floor apartment. Meyer's body was found in his apartment.

The alarm was turned in about 1:30 a.m. after the blaze was spotted by Leon Elsey, Nelson rural mail carrier. Olson said the main street fire, fanned by a brisk south wind, was already well along.

Although several of the hotel residents were taken down a back fire escape, at least one made it to safety by a more dramatic ladder rescue. Miss Alice Rudle, 94, was carried to an adjoining rooftop and then down a firemen's ladder.

"We've got some real good fire boys here or things would have been much worse," said Spurling.

A semi-retired farmer, Spurling bought the hotel 12 years ago and changed its name. Known to be at least 75 years old, it has previously been called the Cliff.

Because of the danger, standing walls of the building were knocked down Sunday morning by a wrecking crane. Extensive water damage was reported at the adjacent ASCS office.

The hotel was partially insured.

Christians Pushed From Beirut Hotel Area

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Moslem gunmen overran the unfinished Hilton Hotel and two neighboring hotels in Beirut on Sunday, leaving Moslem forces in control of the entire downtown hotel area, the official television network reported.

Security officials estimated at least 100 persons were killed in fighting in Beirut and towns across Lebanon on Sunday, boosting the death toll in 11 months of civil war to about 13,500.

The Moslem assault pushed Christian militiamen toward Beirut's port and shrank their last position outside their traditional enclave in the Ashrafia quarter, and exposed the Christians' central headquarters on the edge of Ashrafia to leftist attack.

Moslem gunmen also shelled Christian

President Suleiman Franjeh's hometown of Zagharta, about 60 miles north of Beirut, from all directions, isolating it for the first time in the war.

Christian gunmen also traded fire among themselves over goods in a Persian carpet warehouse in the Beirut port district. It was the first open Christian looting in the port area, and was seen as a sign of rapidly crumbling discipline.

In other developments, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in Cairo suggested that Arab countries send troops to Lebanon to maintain peace and order, and hundreds more Lebanese Christian refugees arrived by boat in Cyprus.

As the Moslem onslaught rolled on across Lebanon, Pierre Gemayel, the main Christian militia leader, issued a conciliatory appeal to his Moslem foes.

"We fully recognize the mistakes of the past and they must be corrected," said Gemayel, leader of the Christian Phalange party, in a broadcast over the pirate Phalange radio. "But the country should not be destroyed in the process."

Gemayel's bid, expressing unprecedented willingness to discuss reforms, appeared aimed at traditional Moslem leaders such as Premier Rashid Karami and former Premier Saeb Salam. Its conciliatory tone underlined the steadily worsening military fortunes of his Phalange gunmen.

"We declare our confidence in you," Gemayel declared. "And trust you will not let troublemakers come between us. We expect from you a decisive, speedy initiative on a responsible level."

This was a clear reference to Kamal Junblatt, the over-all leader of leftist Moslem forces. He has overshadowed traditional Moslem leaders and left them little influence over the course of the 11-month civil war. The chances of success for Gemayel's appeal thus appeared dim.

Junblatt returned Saturday night from Damascus after nine hours of talks with President Hafez Assad of Syria. The Syrian leader was pressuring him for an immediate ceasefire, sources in the Syrian capital reported. But they added that Junblatt insisted he would accept a truce only after the resignation of the Maronite Christian president, Franjeh, and guarantees of increased Moslem power.

Absentee Voting Takes Planning

Voters who know they will be out of the county on primary election day — May 11 — can vote by absentee ballot.

It takes just a little extra effort and time.

Registered voters who will be in town sometime between April 6 and May 10 can vote in the Lancaster County Election Commission office from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

But just in case the ballots do not arrive on schedule, election commission personnel suggest that anyone who plans to vote that first week (April 6) should call the election commission office first.

County residents who will be out of the county between April 6 and May 11 can vote by mail.

The request for a mail ballot must be in writing — a postcard or letter is sufficient — and must be signed by the voter, or his spouse or parent.

The election commission office must receive the request by May 7 and the ballot must be marked in the presence of a notary no later than 8 p.m. May 11, election day.

The ballot must be back in the election commission office no later than 10 a.m., May 13.

Lists of the rules for both absentee ballots and disabled voters are available at the election commission office in the basement of the County-City Building.

Here's how the disabled voter's balloting works:

The application for the ballot must be in writing and contain the voter's mailing address, political party, telephone number if available and voting precinct. It must be signed by the voter, or any person acting as an agent for a disabled voter.

The application may be mailed to the election commission office, 555 S.

10th St., between April 6 and May 7, or brought to the office between April 1 and noon May 11.

All ballots, whether returned by mail or in person by the agent of a disabled voter, must be in the election commission office by 8 p.m. election day.

In the 1972 primary election, 800 disabled and absentee ballots were cast out of a total of 45,580 ballots.

Trapped Whale Gets Tow Job

Port Aux Basques, Canada (AP) — The last of two blue whales that had been trapped by ice drifts in shallow water off the coast of Newfoundland was towed by rope to open water by the Canadian icebreaker Sie Humphrey Gilbert.

The 70-foot mammal was slowly towed with the rope around its tail for a distance of about two miles.

Rolling Stone Says Patty Was Planning To Flee To East Coast

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst had split with Symbionese Liberation Army "soldiers" William and Emily Harris and planned to flee to the East Coast in the weeks before her arrest, according to Rolling Stone magazine.

In a copyright article, the magazine reports that Miss Hearst, convicted a week ago of bank robbery, was preparing to leave San Francisco with Steven Soliah, traveling first to Oregon and then to Boston, where they planned to work as community organizers.

The journey, according to authors David Weir and Howard Kohn, was to have begun by Oct. 1, 1975. Miss Hearst, the Harrises and Soliah were arrested here on Sept. 18.

The article is contained in an issue of the magazine originally scheduled for release on Thursday. However, the editors said they intended to withhold publication of the article until the jury in Soliah's bank robbery trial in Sacramento is sequestered.

Soliah, 27, is accused of an April 21, 1975, holdup at a Crocker National Bank branch in a Sacramento suburb. Jury selection resumes Tuesday.

A portion of the Rolling Stone article was made available to The Associated Press in advance of publication by the magazine's editors. The authors did not disclose their sources.

In the article, Weir and Kohn describe details of the so-called "missing year" in Miss Hearst's account of her 19 months in the radical underground. Members of her jury cited her refusal to testify about the months from September 1974 to the time of her arrest as a factor in rejecting her story of constant fear and coercion by the remnants of the terrorist SLA.

Miss Hearst began feuding with the Harrises shortly after their return from hideouts on the East Coast in the fall of 1974, the magazine says. They had taken up residence in an $80-a-month apartment in Sacramento and Miss Hearst was chafing under strict regimentation imposed by Harris, referring to him frequently as "Adolf," according to Rolling Stone.

At one point, the magazine says, William Harris blackened one of Miss Hearst's eyes when they quarreled over the wording of an SLA tract. Miss Hearst referred to that attack in her testimony at her trial but did not say when it occurred.

After several months, according to the report, the tension between Miss Hearst and the Harrises became so severe that she began to suffer from vaginal bleeding. With the aid of unnamed supporters, the cause of the ailment was diagnosed as acute emotional stress and Miss Hearst was set up in a second Sacramento apartment in early 1975.

In May 1975, the magazine reports, a reconciliation was attempted and Miss Hearst moved in with Harris, whose wife had traveled to Berkeley.

"Bill continued to view himself as her superior and Patty responded with her inimitable sarcasm," Kohn and Weir write. "After a week of renewed squabbling, Patty moved out."

In May, the magazine says, the fugitives gave up the Sacramento hideouts and returned to the Bay area and in the months that followed, the split between Miss Hearst and the Harrises became final.

The underlying dispute, according to Rolling

Stone, was over Harris' role in the death of SLA "soldier" William Wolfe — one of six SLA members slain in a fiery shootout in Los Angeles a month after the bank robbery here for which Miss Hearst was convicted.

Shortly before the shootout, Harris was surprised while attempting to shoplift in a sporting goods store. Miss Hearst fired gunshots to rescue him, alerting police to the SLA presence in the area.

Miss Hearst testified at her trial that Wolfe had raped her in the first weeks after her Feb. 4, 1974, kidnapping and that she despised him. The prosecution, however, contended that the 22-year-old defendant was in love with Wolfe, a point emphasized in the Rolling Stone account.

When Harris one day brought home a knife he had shoplifted in Sacramento, the magazine says, Miss Hearst erupted in anger. "You'll never learn," the magazine quotes her as screaming at Harris.

Miss Hearst was encouraged in her dispute with the Harrises by Wendy Yoshimure, the fugitive artist arrested with her, Rolling Stone reports. At one point, she seriously considered contacting her parents but abandoned the idea for fear of prosecution on the bank robbery charges, according to the account.

Miss Hearst and Soliah were preparing to leave for Oregon and obtain new identification papers at the time they were arrested, according to Rolling Stone. They then planned to travel across country to Boston, where Miss Hearst was to join a woman's collective and both would perform community work.

No mention is made in the 10,000-word article of the April 1975 bank holdup with which Soliah is charged. Law enforcement sources have said Miss Hearst rented a garage used to house a getaway car, but Soliah is the only person charged with the robbery, in which a woman customer was shot to death.

Shortly after Miss Hearst's arrest, Rolling Stone printed what it described as the "inside story" of the heiress' travels after the San Francisco robbery. Many of the details were confirmed later by Miss Hearst's own testimony at her trial.

N.Y. Times Summary

Carter Support Broad, Poll Says

New York — Jimmy Carter appears to have obtained an extraordinarily broad and diverse support from Democrats all over the country through his primary victories, according to a national poll by The New York Times and CBS News. The poll also tends to dispel doubts — at least in terms of the constituency Carter attracts and how they perceive him — that he is not in the mainstream of the party and go counter to claims by his rivals that he cannot be elected.

Udall Proposes N.Y.C. Aid

New York — Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona, declaring himself in an interview the most urban-oriented of the candidates for the Democratic nomination for president, proposed a series of federal programs to ease New York City's financial burdens and stem urban flight. Udall, who had campaigned in Congress for federal aid to New York, said "It's simply critical that New York not go down the drain." The interview is the first of a series with the three candidates in the New York presidential primary who have delegates running in almost all of the 39 congressional districts.

Transit Workers To Strike

New York — More than 4,000 truant employees of the New York City Transit Authority voted to strike Thursday morning if they did not obtain a satisfactory new contract. They voted unanimously for a resolution empowering the officers of the Transport Workers Union to invoke the union's traditional no-contract, no-work policy. This step is traditional with the union on the Sunday preceding the expiration of the contract.

Retirees Net More Money

New York — When combined with Social Security benefits, pension plans for New York City and New York State employees provide many retirees with a net income after taxes that is greater than their income in the last work year, according to a study of public employee pensions by the Twentieth Century Fund. The study said "more net income for not working than for working is not a policy that can endure for long" when taxpayers learn about it. The study proposes changes to integrate government pensions and Social Security benefits so the combined benefits could equal but not exceed a final year's take-home pay. It also recommends that all state and city employees be required to belong to the Social Security system and that withdrawals of public employees from the system be barred.

Peronists Jailed U.S. Teacher On Phony Charge

OLGA TALAMANTE, ... center emotionally reunited with parents.

NEW YORK (AP) — An American teacher said Sunday she was blindfolded and tortured for two days on trumped-up subversive charges before being imprisoned for 16 months by the Isabel Peron regime in Argentina.

Olga Talamante, 27, of Gilroy, Calif., was released by the new military government there as an undesirable foreigner and flew here Sunday.

A University of California honor student at Santa Cruz, she first went to Argentina on a student trip, then stayed on to tutor at a missionary school.

"I was blindfolded for two days, beaten and given electrical shocks until I signed a confession," she told reporters at Kennedy Airport.

She said she and a dozen other persons were seized at a barbeque in Azul, a cattle town of 20,000 persons, on Nov. 11, 1974, and accused of possession of two guns and subversive literature.

"We never had any guns," she said. "We never had any literature. They were planted by the police. The same two guns were used to plant on other persons they wanted to seize."

She said the regime of Isabel Peron had forbidden gatherings of more than five persons to prevent any groups from meeting to overthrow the government.

"I did not sign the confession the way they wanted it," she said, adding, she wrote "just enough to stop the beatings." "The trial wasn't like a trial here," she continued. "It was all done by paper, not in a court room."

Convicted of "conducting subversive activities," she was sentenced to three years in prison. Miss Talamante, the daughter of a California farmworker said she was imprisoned in "an old dirty stucco building" in Azul.

"We were all mostly women in the prison," she said. "The guards were women. We were in a 12-by-15-foot cell with 17 people in it. The food was edible because we cooked it ourselves."

News of Miss Talamante's conviction resulted in a wave of protest from her sympathizers in the United States. About $9,000 was raised on her behalf in the San Francisco Bay area and 24 congressmen and seven U.S. senators made appeals on her behalf, she said.

Because the case was considered an internal judicial matter, the U.S. Embassy in Argentina was limited by diplomatic procedure to seeing that she had legal aid and was given fair treatment.

"I thank all the people who worked and helped to get me free," she said before preparing to take another flight to San Francisco.

"I can't say more because my friends are still in prison."

President Isabel Peron was overthrown by the Argentine armed forces Wednesday. The new three-man junta government issued a series of decrees, including one providing for expulsion of foreigners considered undesirable.

"When informed her daughter was free, Miss Talamante's mother, Refugio, said, 'I thank God, and all those persons who helped to bring her home.'"

Surgeons Work All Night On 85 Bombing Victims

LONDON (AP) — Teams of surgeons performed emergency surgery Sunday on the victims of an IRA bombing that injured 85 persons, including at least eight children, at a crowded home products exhibition.

"We worked all through the night," a weary doctor at St. Stephen's hospital in the west London district of Fulham said.

"Nurses who'd been on duty all day stayed with it until dawn. We conducted 13 emergency operations here alone."

One middle-aged woman and another victim were reported in critical condition. Police said at least four persons who lost limbs in the Saturday blast were still in intensive care units and several other persons were considered in serious condition.

Extra teams of surgeons and nurses were called to St. Stephen's and Charing Cross for the emergency operations which continued until 6 a.m., hospital authorities reported.

The bomb, containing an estimated two pounds of explosives, went off in a trash can at the "Ideal Home Exhibition" in the huge Olympia center in west London. The show's organizer said the exhibit would go on "despite this insanity."

Most of the casualties were hit by shards of glass and metal.

"Most of the injuries were to legs," a hospital spokesman reported. Exhibition organizers said there were at least 15,000 persons in the center when the bomb detonated.

After the Olympia blast, a man with an Irish accent telephoned a British newspaper and said the bombing was the work of the Provisional IRA's "Irish Brigade."

"This is a warning to the British government to take their troops out of Northern Ireland," he said in the call to the Sunday Mirror's Manchester office. "More bombs are on the way if this demand is not met."

Scotland Yard also said the Provisionals were responsible for the bombing.

The Provisionals have been blamed for most of the 287 bombs planted in English cities in the last four years. Sixty persons have been killed and nearly 1,000 wounded in the wave of bombings.

Saturday's bomb was the 14th in the latest blitz, which began in mid-February following the death of IRA hunger-striker Frank Stagg, 34, in an English prison.

The latest offensive marked a significant change in the guerrillas' tactics. They had previously hit prestige targets — the homes and haunts of prominent people and symbols of British authority. But they have now switched to attacks on London's vulnerable transportation system and public gathering places, such as the Olympia.

Bombs on the capital's subway and commuter trains have caused few casualties, but widespread alarm.

In terms of casualties, Saturday's bombing was the worst since a bomb in a car exploded outside London's Old Bailey criminal court three years ago, killing one man and wounding about 200 other persons.

World's Population 4 Billion

CHICAGO (AP) — The world's population passed the four billion mark on Sunday, according to the population clock at the Museum of Science and Industry.

"It just keeps ticking away and sooner or later it was bound to hit a mark such as this," said Bruce Mitchell, assistant to the president of the museum.

The four billion mark was passed around midnight, a museum spokesman said, and had reached 4,000,102,000 by mid-morning Sunday.

But the spokesman was uncertain at what time it happened. "Nobody stuck around to watch it," he said, "and the night watchman evidently didn't care." The clock ticks away at the rate of about 2.2 persons a second, or about 190,000 a day, Mitchell said.

The population clock was first displayed in the museum about 10 years ago as part of an exhibition on how the agriculture industry provides food for the world.

The rate is set by statistics the museum receives periodically from the Population Reference Bureau, a private agency that collects population growth data from every available source.

Still, there is room for inaccuracy because of the difficulty in collecting the data.

"It could be right and it could be off some," Mitchell said. "It's obvious that they get some poor quality data from countries such as China. Who knows how many people are in China?"

The world's growth rate is startling, Mitchell said, noting the length of time it took to reach the previous billion barriers.

The world's population didn't reach one billion until about 1850. The two-billion mark was reached in 1930 and the world grew to three billion in 1961, Mitchell said.

Slip Delays Wings Tour

PARIS (AP) — Ex-Beatle musician Paul McCartney and his group Wings have postponed a 31-concert tour of the United States because guitarist Jimmy McCulloch slipped in the bathroom and broke his hand, the Wings' publicity agent said Sunday.

The tour was to open in Fort Worth, Tex., April 8. A rescheduled tour is planned for May and June.

McCulloch, 22, fractured a finger on his left hand after Wings ended a European tour in Paris Friday night.

He will wear a cast for three weeks, the publicity agent, Tony Brainsky said.

Marine Corps To Ease Pressures On Recruits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senior Marine officers have recommended steps to relieve recruits of "excess mental and physical stress," a Marine Corps spokesman said Sunday.

At the same time, the Corps plans to re-emphasize what the spokesman said was a "longstanding policy of treating each Marine with fairness, firmness and dignity."

The training day, now a dawn-to-night schedule, will be shortened to ease some of the pressure.

A major thrust of the new measures appears aimed at sergeants who conduct most of the rigorous training given to Marine recruits in 11-week courses at Parris Island, S.C., and San Diego, Calif.

"We want to avoid an attitude where a DI (drill instructor) looks on a boot as a thing, rather than a human," a Marine source said.

"There is going to be less of that nose-to-nose yelling by DIs."

There have been repeated complaints that drill instructors tend to be brutal in their methods.

Almost 20 years ago, the Marine Corps initiated training reforms, including curbs on drill instructors, after six recruits drowned in a creek near Parris Island during a night march. A drill instructor was court-martialed after that episode.

The Corps spokesman said the new steps were developed last week at a conference at Parris Island attended by Lt. Gen. Robert Barrow, Marine Deputy chief of staff for manpower, commanders of the Parris Island and San Diego recruit depots and members of their staffs.

Ban Urged On Rat Poison That Killed Two Children

CHICAGO (AP) — A new type of rat poison which has proved fatal to children should be removed from the market, two Texas physicians say.

They report in the March 29 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association on two fatalities and one serious illness to children who ate rat poison containing yellow phosphorus.

This poison differs from the sodium fluoracetate rat poison which earlier this month killed three children and caused illness in six or eight others in Durant, Okla., after they ate poison-

Two Rescued After 24 Days Inside Mine

MANILA, The Philippines (AP) — Two men were rescued Sunday from a Mindanao gold mine where a cave-in had trapped them for 24 days with three other miners who were found dead, the Philippine news agency reported.

They were taken immediately to a hospital in nearby Surigao del Norte, 450 miles south of Manila.

Manuel Chatto, 22, was the first to be carried out on a litter from his trap 163 feet below the surface of the Lepanto Mine.

His mate, Geronimo Acot, 28, was brought out five minutes later.

Chatto, complaining only of a sore throat, said he wanted to return to work right away.

Work Ethics Part Of 6th Grade

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP) — Sixth-graders at a local public school are working on an assembly-line at far below minimum wage. It's all part of a shop program that teaches the children business skills and puts some change in their pockets.

The "St. Lucie Middle School Manufacturing Co." sells spruce-wood planter boxes at $3.50 each. The planters are built on an assembly line set up in the school's woodworking shop, and are sold by student specialists in advertising and door-to-door retailing.

"They get a good look at private enterprise," said Jack Roberts, coordinator of career education at the middle school. "They find out how a business works and they also learn that if

Once the bugs were eliminated from the operation, the youngsters began turning out up to 300 planters a week. Of the $3.50 charged for each planter, 25 cents goes as commission to whomever makes the sale, $1 is set aside for a wage pool and the remainder goes for materials.

At the end of each nine-week shop term, the proceeds from the $1-a-box wage pool are divided among the students based on the hours worked. Some students have made $5 or $6 from commissions alone.

Roberts said that along with learning woodworking skills, the students are learning business ethics.

"For instance, that if you take an order, you are responsible for seeing that the merchandise is delivered in a reasonable time," he said.

Old Farmer's Riddle: Which President killed a man in a duel? (Answer below.)

Ask the Old Farmer: My father has a hardback cracker with an inscription that reads, "Marvin's US Hardtack." Can you tell if it is from WWI or WWII, and if it might have any value at all? R.W., Galveston, Texas.

Depends on the size. If it is about two and a half inches square, it is not very old. If it is four inches square, it could date back considerably. Probably not valuable though.

San Francisco — The golden morning shines on the Chinese red towers of the Golden Gate Bridge. Beneath the towers, a black freighter is bucking the current, outbound for exotic ports in the Far East. For water buffalo-borne cargo in Cebu.

I've got an aloha for the bridge: I've watched it overhead at sunset as we went under it in the Lurline headed for Hawaii. I've watched it disappear in fog.

I've crossed it by car — by now I must have paid enough tolls to buy the blooming bridge. I was around when they put in tubs you threw your toll in. The quarter read it electronically. If all was correct, it turned on a green light and let you through.

It was a disaster. Instead of getting rid of a toll collector, they had to add an extra toll collector to pick up the money that missed the tubs.

Alas in my morning paper the headline says: "BRIDGE TOLLS TO RISE TO ONE DOLLAR" (It's a Success Story.)

"THE BRIDGE THAT SINGS!" (It was singing what a wonderful town San Francisco was, if you listened right.)

Poll: FDR Given Best Job Rating

By LOUIS HARRIS
Of the last seven U.S. Presidents, the American people choose Franklin D. Roosevelt as having done "the best job in the White House." John F. Kennedy is viewed as having "most inspired confidence" and Richard M. Nixon as "best in foreign affairs."

Louis Harris
Truman Gaining

President Nixon also enjoys a less enviable distinction. He is cited by the public as "having set the lowest moral standards" in the White House, while his Republican predecessor, Dwight D. Eisenhower, is seen as setting "the highest moral standards." On three other key dimensions, President Kennedy finished first as "the best administrator" of the group and the "most personally appealing," while FDR is "best on domestic affairs."

Obscured by all of these first-place finishes is the relatively strong showing of Harry S. Truman, who went up in almost every category since 1972, when the Harris Survey first tested public estimates of the last seven Presidents. President Truman jumped from fifth to third as "doing the best job," went from sixth to third in handling domestic affairs and tied JFK for second place in "setting the highest moral standards."

extramarital sex life in the White House have not helped the public memory of Mr. Kennedy, but they have not seriously hurt it, either.

President Roosevelt, who has been the subject of some widely acclaimed books and television specials, such as Joseph Lash's "Eleanor and Franklin," appears to be enjoying a renaissance in public opinion. He had moved up in every category over the past four years, and in this latest poll he finished with two firsts, three seconds, one third and one fourth out of seven positive categories. In 1972, he did not rank first in any one area. He is now close to passing Mr. Kennedy on inspiring confidence and to Nixon as best in foreign affairs.

In contrast, Richard Nixon fell from grace across a wide front in this latest Harris Survey, recently conducted among a nationwide cross section of 1,512 adults. He dropped from fourth to last on inspiring confidence, from third to last in handling domestic affairs, from second to last place as the best administrator, from fourth to last as most personally appealing, and from third place to last on doing the best job in the White House. He also finishes last in setting the highest moral standards, but is first by a massive margin on setting the lowest moral standards. For all of this drastic reevaluation by the public, Nixon nonetheless is still regarded as the modern President who handled foreign affairs best, a position he held four years ago.

The survey reveals one striking difference in responses by age. Among those under 30 most feel that Mr. Kennedy stands head and shoulders above the other six presidents tested. Among those 50 and over, FDR occupies a similarly exalted status. The 35-49 age group tends to have no dominant figure in its presidential memories.

(c) 1976 by The Chicago Tribune

With less than a full term in office behind him, Gerald Ford, who is a non-elected President, is simply not in the running with his predecessors. It is apparent the American people are withholding their historical judgments about Ford for the moment.

Among this series of past presidents, President Lyndon Johnson does not score well on any single dimension. He finishes in a tie with President Eisenhower for fourth as "best in domestic affairs," is a weak fifth as the "best administrator" and is tied for last place on inspiring confidence, doing the best job in the White House and the most personally appealing.

It is clear that Presidents Roosevelt and Kennedy rank highest in public esteem. On seven positive dimensions tested, John F. Kennedy emerged on top in three — inspiring confidence, best administrator and most personally appealing. He finished a close second to Nixon on handling foreign affairs, just behind Roosevelt on doing the best overall job and on domestic affairs, and tied for second after President Eisenhower on setting the highest moral standards.

JFK is singled out for praise by 21% for setting highest moral standards, while 7% chose him for setting the lowest. On balance, it would have to be concluded that the recent spate of stories about his alleged

Downtown Omaha Boondoggle

Headed for final reading and almost certain passage this week is LB1006, the bill authorizing construction of a downtown campus for the University of Nebraska at Omaha in connection with a state office building and technical college space.

The downtown Omaha complex will be funded by the state ($9 million — $8 million as originally proposed for the office building and $1 million added for the UN-O continuing education center) and by private Omaha interests (at least $5 million).

The Omaha-area legislative delegation lacks only the vote of Sen. Ernie Chambers to be unanimous in support of the downtown complex, which is seen in many quarters as one more attempt to shore up a decaying center city area and bolster private investments therein. Of the remaining 33 senators from outside Omaha, only 14 voted to move LB1006 to its final stage, indicating perhaps that a majority of senators outside Omaha question the need of a downtown campus for UN-O. (Only Sens. Roland Luedtke and Shirley Marsh of the Lincoln-area delegation voted with the majority in moving the bill to final reading last week.)

We have no complaint with the office building expenditure.

But there is good reason to question the need to spend tax money for a low priority item — the continuing education center for UN-O — especially in a year in which the Legislature is receiving all sorts of criticism for meeting the legitimate needs of the university system. If the "wild spending machine" description hung on the Legislature has any foundation at all, it is in the budgeting of state money for a downtown UN-O campus when there are other priority needs at UN-O and the system as a whole.

Likewise, one must question Gov. Exon's criticism of the Legislature's spending habits with regard to the university if he goes along with the appropriation for the downtown UN-O center.

The case has not been made for the need for development of another arm of the university, one which will from now on into the future divert a steady stream of tax dollars away from existing or planned high priority NU system programs and facilities.

A majority of the Legislature and apparently the governor are acquiescing in this matter. It is, to us, a powerful illustration of the influence and allure of private interests and their money.

Senate Makes Up With SST

Supporters of the British-French Concorde showed surprising strength last week as the U.S. Senate decisively beat back attempts to ban the supersonic plane from American airports.

Secretary of Transportation William Coleman earlier this year authorized Air France and British Airways to use Concorde on two daily flights each into Kennedy Airport in New York and one daily flight each into Dulles Airport near Washington for up to 16 months. The Port Authority of New York and New Jersey has banned Concorde at Kennedy and the airlines are fighting that decision in court. The authority to land at Dulles during the test period still stands.

The question in the Senate last week entailed a permanent ban on all supersonic passenger planes at all U.S. airports except during an emergency or for test purposes. That proposal and subsequent related amendments were defeated by overwhelming margins.

In rejecting a ban on Concorde, the Senate contradicted its commendable stand against supersonic commercial passenger airliners taken earlier this decade. The Senate at that time rejected funds to help develop an American SST.

Apparently the thinking of the Senate has swung around in the intervening years to the point where a majority now feels that the economic health of the British and French aeronautics industries is more important than the health of the American aeronautics industry and more significantly, that bailing out Concorde's manufacturers is more important than the health of American citizens and their quality of life.

It will be interesting to see whether the administration in power and/or the Congress in sixteen months has the courage to ban supersonic planes if at the end of the test period Concorde has not proved its case.

Castor Oil And Orange Juice

Lincoln, Neb.
I can't understand why Henry Jackson is considered a conservative. His views on most issues, including the Federal Land Use Bill, are the same as Morris Udall's.

I will go a bit further and predict if Henry Jackson wins the Democratic nomination, he will pick Morris Udall for his running-mate. This to me would be like getting castor oil hidden in the orange juice.

'Mass Gathering'

Lincoln, Neb.
I agree with Nancy Hicks' implication (Star, March 22, Pg. 1) that the city-county's proposed "mass gathering" ordinance has unrealistic requirements that must be met before an outdoor mass gathering could be held within city or county limits. If government-owned Memorial Stadium and Pinewood Bowl were covered by this ordinance, they could not meet the proposed requirements; how can a private group be expected to meet them?

County Commissioner Bruce Hamilton appropriately has asked: "Are we making rules to protect people or to discourage gatherings?" Preferably, the county commissioners do the former, but the proposed ordinance has already discouraged gatherings. Although this ordinance has not even had a public hearing yet, much less been made a law, a City-County Health Department official has threatened to enforce it as if it were already a law, by breaking up any gathering which does not meet the proposed requirements.

A concert at Nebraska Wesleyan University was cancelled, in part, because the proposed requirements could not be met by its sponsor, the NWU Inter-Fraternity Council, and we were not going to rent from the city or state to have a private gathering.

Everyone with whom I have talked, except those who drafted the proposed ordinance, has agreed that rock concerts on private property would be legislated out of existence by this ordinance. But rock concerts would not be the only gathering that would be "outlawed": Any mass gathering, including (as the proposed ordinance states) "carnivals, circuses, fairs, festivals, music festivals, and other amusements" on private property would be covered. Are the city and county trying to take away our right to amuse ourselves on our own private property?

The proposed "mass gathering" ordinance is unrealistic in its requirements and is discriminatory against private interests. If it is to be passed, at all, it needs to be drastically revised.

What is Congressman McCollister's "beef" about Lt. Gov. Gerald Whalen? I think Mr. Whalen is a fine officer and I compliment Governor Exon for recommending him for the office.

ON TARGET

By DON WALTON

The gathering storm:
Monday: The Legislature today voted to take Gov. J. James Exon to court, charging him with attempting to incite a riot.

Exon, the senators said, has used the powers of his office to "foment civil discontent," urging citizens to "rise up" and challenge the decisions of the legislative branch of state government.

"Dangerous sedition," one senator charged.

"Guilty," cried another.

"I've had to take out my telephone," one law-maker told his colleagues. "And the mailman has threatened to quit."

Exon has urged Nebraskans to deluge senators with telephone calls and letters protesting their tentative budget and spending decisions.

Informed of the Legislature's actions, Exon renewed his plea to citizens to contact their senators.

"Get in touch with their honorable bodies," the governor declared.

Tuesday: The budget confrontation between Gov. J. James Exon and the Legislature reached flash point proportions today.

A citizens' taxpayer organization announced that it will march on the Legislature Wednesday in support of the governor's budget recommendations.

Exon pushed a wheelbarrow full of supporting mail he has received to the door of the legislative chamber.

"We are under seige," one senator declared.

The Legislature decided to institute new security arrangements, placing its largest members near the doors.

Late in the day, it received pledges of support from the Nebraska Medical Association and the University of Nebraska.

"If you need us after the protestors have left tomorrow, just let us know," the doctors wired.

Wednesday: Gov. J. James Exon led a protest march of citizens to the legislative chambers today as the 1976 Battle of the Budget neared its showdown.

"Check your billboards before you go in," the governor cautioned taxpayers at the door. "You will be able to distinguish the senators by their wild eyes," he told them.

The electric board in the front with the flashing lights is the infamous wild spending machine. When it is mostly dotted with green lights, you'd better kiss your loose change goodbye."

Legislative deliberations were periodically interrupted during the enactment of spending bills.

"Sit on it!" the angry crowd chanted from the balconies. "Same to ya!" one cigar-smoking senator in a center aisle seat shouted back.

At one point, senators passed a motion to "firmly adhere" to their previous spending decisions.

"We won't be intimidated. We won't be bullied. We won't be pressured. We shall hold our ground," one lawmaker declared.

The vote was 25-24.

At the conclusion of the day's work, senators were unable to leave the chamber. Citizens blocked the exits and murmured threateningly.

Law-makers returned to session briefly and appointed a committee to negotiate with the crowd. Committee members were immediately taken hostage.

"You can have them back if you reduce spending," the citizen negotiators informed the remaining senators on a note delivered by rock.

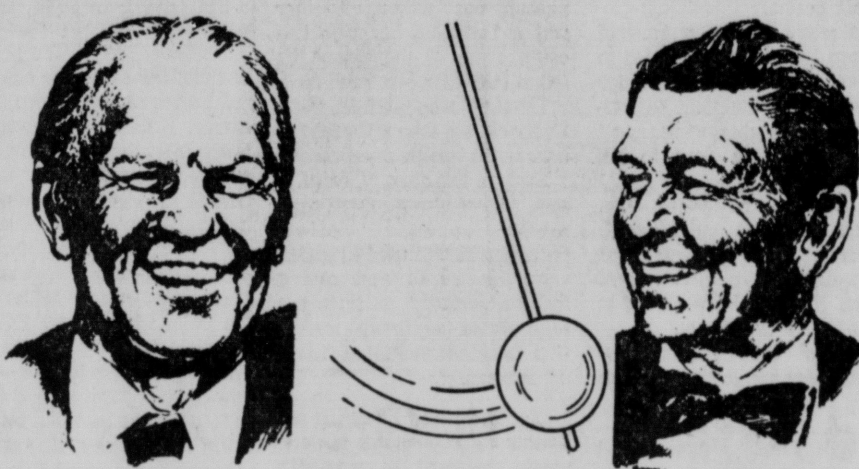

Returning to session again, the Unicameral appointed two additional hostages and pushed them out the door.

In the confusion most of the other senators slipped through the crowd — careful to keep their eyes half closed.

Pendulum Of Political Preference relatively weak preference for Right-wing candidates among GOP voters. This underscores the importance of 1975-76 polls. Even though Gerald Ford appears to have withstood the Reagan challenge, the GOP Right has mobilized a larger-than-usual share of the party electorate in Gallup polls, and done so against a sitting president!

Some observers argue that the Republican Party has become more conservative only as its numbers have shrunk. Conceivably. But there are other poll signs of an across-the-board, national shift rightward. In 1975, Gallup polled a cross-section of U.S. voters and found 25% in favor of a new party on the Right. In late 1975, Louis Harris found a 43-19% plurality of Americans favoring a political move to the Right ("a more conservative direction") rather than to the Left.

Today, observers are speculating that for the first time since the 1920s, the Democratic presidential nominee may not come from the liberal wing of the party. Arguably, and despite popular rejection of the Reagan-Wallace extremes, U.S. politics is shifting away from the Center-to-Left axis of 1932-68, so that the critical interaction is now between the Center and the Right.

KEVIN P. PHILLIPS

WASHINGTON — Most people watching the contest between Ronald Reagan and Gerald Ford have focused on primary votes and delegate counts. That's understandable.

But beyond these ups and downs, another important set of statistics has been largely overlooked. Measured alongside 1948-72 Gallup GOP party preference polls, Reagan's 1976 campaign against President Ford emerges as the most widely supported right-wing presidential challenge mounted within the Republican Party since Dr. Gallup began his surveys.

Consider: Between November, 1975, and February, 1976, the Gallup Poll found Republican voter support for Reagan running at 40-45%, which put him neck and neck with the President. No previous presidential candidate from the GOP Right has ever run so well in party preference polls. Not Senator Robert A. Taft, and not even Barry Goldwater in 1964.

Comparison is useful back to World War Two. Ohio Senator Robert Taft, hero of the postwar Republican Right, scored poorly in 1948 Gallup surveys among party voters. Only 14% of the Republicans sampled in March, 1948, chose Taft; from April through June, the Ohioan's support ranged between 8 and 10%. Ultimately, Taft lost the Republican presidential nomination to New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, choice of party moderates. Four years later, Taft did better — polling 33-36% between February and June, 1952 — although he once again failed to win the party nomination.

No serious bid was made by the Republican Right in 1956 or 1960. Conservatism's emerging hero, Barry Goldwater, never rose above one per cent party preference in January-July, 1960, Gallup surveys. What's more, in 1964 Arizona Goldwater was hardly the toast of the national GOP electorate. Just 23% of Republicans named him their first presidential choice in January, 1964, and the figure slipped as low as 14% in May.

Intra-party support for Goldwater peaked at only 34% in July, when Gallup matched the senator in a two-way trial heat with then-Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton. A good delegate strategy, not rank-and-file support, won the 1964 nomination.

After Barry Goldwater's November, 1964, defeat, the baton of leadership on the Republican Right passed to California Gov. Ronald Reagan. But Reagan's late-hour bid for the GOP nomination in 1968 got nowhere, and his presidential preference ratings among Republican voters were equally inauspicious: Gallup found him with 8% support in January, 1968, rising to 11% in March and falling to 7% in July.

With Richard Nixon in the White House, opposition from the Right was ineffective in 1972. Ohio Republican Congressman John Ashbrook's primary challenge collapsed under the weight of poor performances in New Hampshire and Florida. The Ohioan never made more than a minor ripple in any national polls.

So there's the historical profile: 30 years (50 if you go back to Herbert Hoover's day) of the tomb of the Reagan zombie by announcing his support for the President at some propitious moment before May 1.

It's A Whole New Ball Game

Then came Tuesday night's Reagan upset in North Carolina — the margin curiously like Ford's close win in Florida, but what a difference winning makes — and an electric shock crackled through Texas the following day.

Republican politicians here interpret the relatively small swing that changed Reagan's Florida defeat to North Carolina victory to (1) voter reaction to press accounts ruling Reagan out of the race, which were exploited well by the new underdog (2) overconfidence in the Ford camp, which began to believe what it was reading, and (3) Reagan's belated replacement of a pseudo-commandment with a vigorous attack on an outdated foreign policy.

An observer with more experience than most in Texas politics thinks that the primary situation today is remarkably volatile — a 10% swing, 5% each way, is possible within 24 hours. It is thought that Tower is unlikely to be claiming any lead here for Ford today.

In economic good times, the main topic of interest is foreign policy. The President's supporters are in a bind: If Ford and his surrogates ignore the hard-line demands of Reagan, they suffer as one-way detentions; if they accede to them, as the President's men surely have been doing, they make it appear that the unelected challenger is making foreign policy decisions for the unelected President.

And what of John Connally, who has long been saying that foreign policy would determine the outcome of the coming election? Is he the President's secret Southwestern weapon, primed to boom his support of Ford on Texas primary eve?

Forget that.

"We need a great deal of effort," Connally said, "to obtain a larger percentage of Republicans in Congress. That's what I've been doing for six months and hope to continue. To become involved in the presidential primary fight could do harm to that work, and I'd sure have to think a long time about abandoning that work in order to inject myself into the presidential campaign at this late date."

That makes sense; the endorsement of big guns, and the visits of celebrities should not interfere with the choice of Republican voters in the next big primary. And if Jimmy Carter snares one of the spots on the Democratic ticket, John Connally (How come everybody's initials are "J.C.?" would be a natural choice to be part of a Republican ticket to keep the South from returning to the Democratic fold.

The Reagan campaign song is now "What A Difference A Day Makes." When the euphoria ebbs, the California will still have an uphill battle; however he has now had the experience of letting early leads in New Hampshire and Florida erode, and may have learned what not to do.

What not to do, in Reagan's case is to shadowbox in a meaningless personality contest. What not to do in Ford's case, is to send supposedly non-political emissaries to do his own political campaigning. Foreign policy, as Connally predicted, is emerging as the issue of 1976: That is the serious issue to be joined by the principals themselves this coming month in Texas.

Television Shows Relax Children Visiting Dentist

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Big Bird, Kermit the Frog, Mr. Rogers and other familiar childrens' TV characters can reduce stress and anxiety in youngsters visiting their dentist, a researcher said Sunday.

Dr. Larry L. Venham, an assistant professor of pediatric dentistry at the University of Connecticut's School of Dental Medicine, said a study, partially funded by the federal government, found that the showing of three popular childrens' television shows reduced youngsters' heart-beat rate and anxiety during dental visits.

"I was looking for something to serve as a distraction, so they wouldn't be sitting in that chair, looking at a strange environment and hearing strange sounds," Venham said. "Something they could relate to, and which would be familiar to them."

"These shows, generally, move very fast and hold the kids' attention," he said.

Venham's results were presented in a paper to the International Association for Dental Research, meeting on Miami Beach. In an interview, Venham said all 51 preschool children studied had never before been to a dentist.

"We were interested in finding out just what the effect of a dental visit was, to establish the average response and the affect of accumulating experience," he said. "And we were looking for things to modify that response."

The children, ranging in age from 2 to 5, were divided into a 20-child study group which watched "Sesame Street," "Mr. Rogers" or the "Electric Company" while in the dental chair, and a control group of 31 youngsters who did not watch television.

Children in both groups had an initial examination and two later dental visits during which cavities were filled and other work performed, Venham said. Electrodes and a photoelectric sensor, to monitor heart rate and other physical responses to stress, were attached to children in both groups.

Venham said the average heart rate for the experimental group was 86.1 per minute, and 89.5 per minute for the control group. Each child was asked to select pictures of other children who looked most like the subject felt at the time, and the experimental group more often selected pictures of relaxed-appearing children that did the other group, he said.

Venham said he's hesitant to recommend the procedure for other dentists because of the limited hours within which it would work — the hours during which the shows are broadcast. But he plans to ask the shows' producers for tapes of the programs which that could be used in video-tape machines.

"This really is the same idea as the canned music that is played for adults," he said.

Hypnosis What's it all about?

James McMillen Question:

I'm a heavy smoker and have smoked for a lot of years. How can hypnosis make me stop smoking?

ANSWER:

Let me first of all say that my experience has been that heavy, long-time smokers are our best clients. This is because the 2 or 3 pack-a-day smoker can really appreciate the results more so than a person smoking just a few cigarettes after meals, etc.

While years ago, hypnotists used to try to "make" people stop smoking, they usually don't anymore. If used to be that hypnotists would suggest that the person's cigarettes would taste like manure or gasoline, and that the taste would be so terrible that they would quit out of disgust.

I have never used this approach mostly because I have learned that most true cigarette addicts would smoke manure for a week, adjust to the taste of manure, and keep on smoking. Therefore, it really isn't effective. Usually I give the cigarette smoker two suggestions:

1. That they will not again ever crave, feel they need, have to have, or want, another cigarette.
2. That they will experience no withdrawal-no nervousness, no tension, anxiety or restlessness. I suggest that they will really be more relaxed not smoking than they were when they smoked.

Therefore, I always explain that I haven't "made" them stop smoking - I made it very easy to stop smoking if they want to. Surprisingly, I've found this approach much more effective. My role is to make it very easy to quit - by removing the craving and blocking any withdrawal. Really, it's a pleasant experience.

Mental Health Group Asks For Opinion

An attorney general's opinion has been requested on an amendment to LB691 which concerns community mental health services. A conflict between it and an act passed in 1974, LB302, was cited as the reason for the request.

Hastings College Costs Going Up

Hastings (AP) — Hastings College officials have announced that tuition, room and board costs will rise $155 per student per semester next fall.

Tuition will increase from the present $1,025 to $1,125. Room will go up from $215 to $240 and board will rise from $330 to $360.

Marvin Fink, college secretary, said the increases were necessitated by rising costs.

Dana Approves Record Budget

Blair (AP) — Dana College regents have approved a record operating budget of $2,468,000 for the 1976-77 school year and a 9% increase in student fees.

The 9% figure includes an increase of $200 a year in tuition, $30 in room charges and $50 in board. The cost for a full time resident student at Dana will be $3,425.

Marriot Park Opening

Santa Clara, Calif. (UPI) — Marriott will open its $50 million Great America theme park here on April 10, it was announced. The park, which covers 200 acres, is divided into five areas that reflect different periods of American Life. Other attractions include the world's tallest double-decker carousel and the world's only triple ferris wheel. A similar park is scheduled to be opened on June 5 at Gurnee, Ill., a few miles north of Chicago.

accountability but would increase administrative costs, it said.

It charged that the amendment ignores the philosophy of community mental health, which is to decrease admissions to more expensive state hospital programs by using "more efficient, effective and economical methods of treatment."

Deletion of a portion of the amendment was recommended in the letter.

The board of directors also unanimously approved a resolution supporting LB806, a mental health commitment reform bill.

Be Smarter than the Average Bear

When it comes to energy conservation, a bear shows pretty good sense. He builds up fat and fur in the summer to last him all winter long. Then he hibernates during the winter so that he can save his precious energy.

You have a considerable edge on Mr. Bear. You don't have to hibernate to save energy. With modern heating and cooling technology, you can remain active all year long.

You should, however, be aware of the many ways that you have to conserve energy, so that the generations to come will have the same opportunities that you do.

Reagan's Change In Tactics Hits Snag

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ronald Reagan is changing his campaign tactics after his North Carolina victory over President Ford, turning to television, the medium he knows and uses best.

But his new strategy, calling for him to spend up to $100,000 this week for a 30-minute nationwide television address, has hit a snag.

All three major networks have turned down Reagan's attempts to purchase half an hour of prime time. The networks said they weren't opposed in principle to selling the time but that they just couldn't fit Reagan in on such short notice.

The Reagan campaign announced after the North Carolina vote that it was canceling most appearances this week while the former California governor prepared a major policy address for nationwide broadcast.

On Sunday, Reagan headquarters in Washington released the text of a telegram to the ABC, CBS and NBC networks.

"Urgently request you sell my campaign committee half hour of prime network time in order that I may make a major address to the American people," the telegram read.

"In the interest of fairness and justice as well as the peoples' right to know, I believe time should be made available. Otherwise, I will be unable to gain the same access to the people as the other contender, Gerald R. Ford."

Because he is President, the networks generally pre-empt network programming to allow Ford to deliver an address that is not considered purely political.

Reagan said Saturday that he planned his nationwide address even if the networks didn't change their minds.

During a lull when Reagan appears on the ballot in only one of the three primaries scheduled next month — the April 6 Wisconsin race — efforts were directed toward the television appearance.

Wallace Planning No Further Races

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace indicated Sunday that this year's presidential race may be his last political contest.

Wallace, appearing on NBC's "Meet the Press," said recent primary election defeats will make it harder to win the Democratic presidential nomination, but not impossible.

The primaries are not over, he said, and he added that he will remain in the race. He predicted that he will do well in next week's Wisconsin primary.

Asked if he would accept a draft by a third party if he failed to win the Democratic nod, he responded: "I see no circumstances under which I would accept a draft."

Wallace was also asked what he sees in the future if he should fail to get the nomination this year. He responded that he will be governor of Alabama for three more years and then "my political career would probably be over."

Pressed on this point, Wallace said he has no plans to run for office again in the future. He added he doesn't know if his wife would be interested in any political candidacy, but he said he didn't think she would.

Wallace's first wife, Lurleen, was once elected governor of Alabama when Wallace was prohibited from succeeding himself.

Wallace said he felt he has accomplished a philosophical victory this year in that many other candidates are campaigning against big government as he has done in the past. And he attributed some of his defeats to this, saying that the public has more of a choice of candidates taking this position.

He disagreed with a statement of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., that attacks on Washington are indirect racism because they are attacks on programs for the poor and minorities.

And Wallace said segregation has become a moot question because integration is now the law of the land.

Wallace Eyes Future Outside Public Office

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Until his presidential campaign began to crumble, George C. Wallace talked about what he might do in the White House. Now he talks of what he might do when he leaves office in 1979 after three terms as governor of Alabama.

"I could do a lot of things. I could practice law. I could write. I could farm or anything else." Or maybe he will retire on a lifetime pension which would pay him $29,475 a year.

For now, the 56-year-old partially paralyzed Wallace is still in the presidential race and hoping he can find the winning formula in some of the remaining primaries. But after his defeat Tuesday in North Carolina, his third loss in a row to former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, he conceded it would be very difficult to win the Democratic nomination.

Four years ago, Wallace had won six primaries and led all other candidates in total votes before he was shot down in an assassination attempt at Laurel, Md., and left paralyzed in both legs.

So far this year he has lost to Carter in Florida, Illinois and North Carolina. He finished third behind Sen. Henry Jackson and Rep. Morris Udall in Massachusetts, one place ahead of Carter.

The North Carolina results prompted Wallace to make drastic changes in his campaign tactics and even in his campaign organization.

He began making personal attacks on an opponent, calling Carter a "warmed-over McGovern." In the past, Wallace had refrained from mentioning other candidates by name; "let them draw their own crowds" was his motto.

The Wallace campaign staff underwent a sharp cutback. Thirty or more workers were laid off, including country music singer Billy Grammer. The governor also abandoned the oldtime foot-stomping rallies which had been his bread and butter.

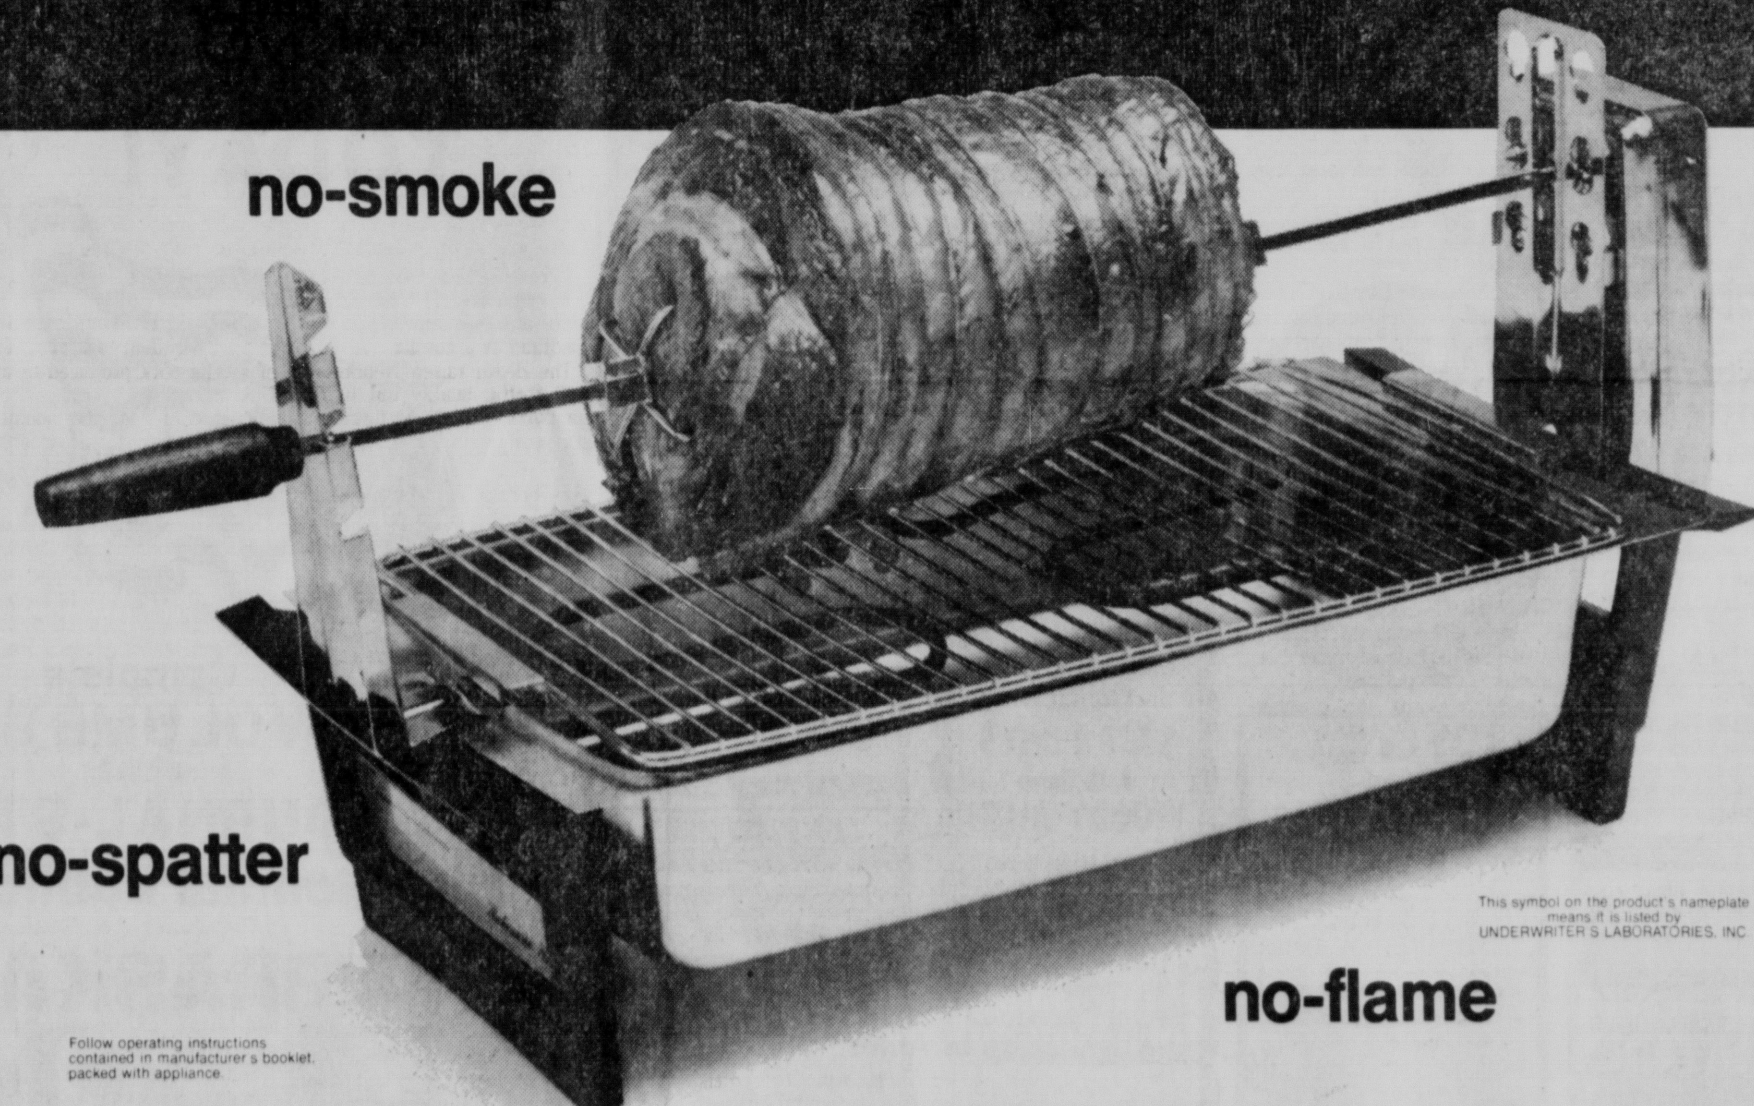

For the rest of the campaign, Wallace says he will concentrate on newspaper, radio and television interviews and advertising. As one campaign aide explained it, "we've been monopolizing the governor's time letting him speak to maybe 5,000 people when he can reach many times that many through the news media."

"Nowadays," he added, "you use the news media or you're flat wasting your time. The old-time political rally, that's old stuff. It doesn't work anymore."

Early Film Idol Richard Arlen Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Richard Arlen, early-day film idol who played such varied roles as varsity hero, daring pilot, leading man and gunslinger during more than 45 years in motion pictures, died Sunday, hospital officials said. He was 75.

Arlen died at Riverside Hospital in North Hollywood where he had been hospitalized for a month with emphysema.

The actor, who kept busy in later years with character roles, came to Hollywood from the Texas oil fields in 1920. He worked on the fringes of the movie business at the outset, living on earnings from an occasional bit part or as an extra.

At a 1961 celebration marking his 40th year in films, Arlen estimated he'd appeared in more than 250 pictures.

Arlen was a combination film developer and delivery boy for a movie lab in 1920 when what turned out to be a fortunate accident occurred. He was delivering some film to what later became the Paramount lot. The gate failed to work and Arlen's motorcycle crashed. He suffered a broken leg and was taken to the studio hospital.

When he recovered, he took a streetcar to the studio to offer his thanks for the gifts and assistance and was pressed into service as a bit player and camera operator.

RICHARD ARLEN ... played in 250 movies.

Arlen worked for one company that was so poor it could pay him off only with a print of the film — "Vengeance of the Deep." The reviews were highly critical, but Arlen took the print to Paramount on the basis of his own performance and landed a contract. He remained at that studio 17 years and was regarded as the top star on the lot at one time.

Even so, there were periods of deep discouragement. Arlen once confessed that he was about to leave the Hollywood scene on several occasions. He was sustained, he said, by the faith in him of actress Jobyna Ralston — later to become his second wife.

Then came a lucky assignment in "Wings," a film starring Gary Cooper, Buddy Rogers and Clara Bow that was voted best picture of 1927. That was the year the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences was formed and Hollywood began handing out Oscars.

Arlen's role was not substantial, but he acquitted himself very well in Hollywood's first great air picture. This, plus his manly good looks, led to better parts.

The former flier for the British in World War I subsequently played in about a dozen flight films and in 1953 was cast as an Air Force general in "Sabre Jet."

Among his more recent pictures were "The Last Time I Saw Archie," "Devil's Harbor," "Kansas Raiders," "Flaming Feather," "Hurricane Smith," "Blazing Forest," "Hidden Guns" and "Devil's Canyon."

The actor retained his trim figure, ruddy-tan complexion and luxuriant hair long after he was inactive in pictures.

In recent years he lived comfortably with his third wife, the former Margaret Kinsella, in Sherman Oaks.

Arlen invested in various enterprises, but once claimed that "money has never been important to me. It didn't matter whether I was making a few bucks a day as an extra or thousands a week as a star."

The actor, whose real name was Richard van Mattimore, was born in Charlottesville, Va., but spent most of his boyhood in St. Paul, Minn. While still a teenager he joined the Royal Flying Corps — later to be known as the RAF — during World War I.

He trained in Canada and was sent to England but saw no combat, having been relegated to a pool of youthful reserve pilots when the war ended in 1918. He said later that filming "Wings" was far more dangerous.

When World War I ended, Arlen found himself restless and decided to give up the college training he had begun earlier at St. Thomas College and the University of Pennsylvania.

After a stint as a sports writer in Duluth, Minn., and work in Texas oil fields at Breckenridge and Ranger, he headed for California.

Arlen's early films included "Touchdown," "Sea God," "Enchanted Hill," "Speed to Spare," "Return to Wildfire," "In the Name of Love," "Three-Cornered Moon," "When My Baby Smiles at Me" and "Grand Canyon."

Teacher, 26, Should Drop Teen

DEAR ABBY: I'm in love for the first time, and the circumstances are a bit unusual. I'm 26 and Rob is 19. Before you say I'm crazy, please listen to the facts.

I'm a school teacher who is very petite and who looks like a teenager. Rob is very mature for his age. We met while bowling. When I told him my age, he was surprised, but he said it didn't matter. It was love at first sight, Abby. After the second date it was as though we'd known each other all our lives.

When we're together alone it's sheer heaven, but for some reason Rob doesn't want to go out in public with me. It can't be my age because he told me I look

18. I accidentally ran into him in the shopping center once, and he ignored me. That really hurt. Later he apologized, saying he was self-conscious because he'd never been in love before.

Abby, I want to marry Rob. Please don't think I'm a silly kid. How can I bring him around?

STARS IN MY EYES
DEAR STARS: No man who loves a woman would ignore her in public — or anywhere else. (He may have something going with another girl and doesn't want to be seen with you.) Rob has a lot of growing up to do before he qualifies for marriage. I say, toss him back. He's not a keeper.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 54, have been a widow for four years and have recently started dating a man who is 35.

He looks older than he is and I look younger than I am, so I'm not sure if the difference in our ages is the problem.

The other day he told me that he was invited to spend the weekend with his best friend who is married and lives out of town, and he asked me to go along. I said no because I didn't think it was proper. He said I was silly and old-fashioned.

Was I?

OLD-FASHIONED
DEAR LADY: I see nothing "improper" about accompanying the gentleman you're dating on a weekend trip as long as you maintain separate sleeping quarters. If he expected you to double up, that's a different story.

DEAR ABBY: My wife recently died. We had been married only two and a half years. She was 48. I am 56. It was a second marriage for both of us — a short but happy one.

I have just discovered a diary among her things. I never knew she kept one. It may be recent or one she kept prior to our marriage.

I am tempted to read it, but I'm not sure it would be right. Please advise me.

CURIOUS
DEAR CURIOUS: What was, was. Destroy it immediately to remove the temptation.

Bridge Part-Score Hands Are Important Also

By B. JAY BECKER

East dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1♣	1♥	Pass	3♥
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead - ten of clubs.

It is generally not realized that only about half the hands dealt in bridge produce a game. The others are part-score hands and, while they are usually not as exciting as game or slam hands, they nevertheless play an important role in bridge because of their relative frequency.

Consider this deal played in Venice during the U.S.-Italy match in the 1974 world championship. It was only a part-score hand, but the huge audience that saw it played on Bridge-O-Rama got a big kick out of the masterly defense displayed by the Italian East-West pair, Belladonna and Garozzo.

Garozzo, West, led the ten of clubs and Belladonna, East, played the deuce on it! This remarkable play paid off rather well.

The U.S. declarer won the ten with the jack, played a low trump to the ace and a low trump back. Belladonna took the king and returned the queen of clubs. When declarer covered with the ace, Garozzo ruffed, shifted to a diamond, and Belladonna cashed two club tricks to put the contract down one.

South would have made the contract had Belladonna made the normal play of his queen of clubs on the ten at trick one. Had he done that, he would have scored his king of clubs later on and given West a club ruff, but South would have made two club tricks instead of one.

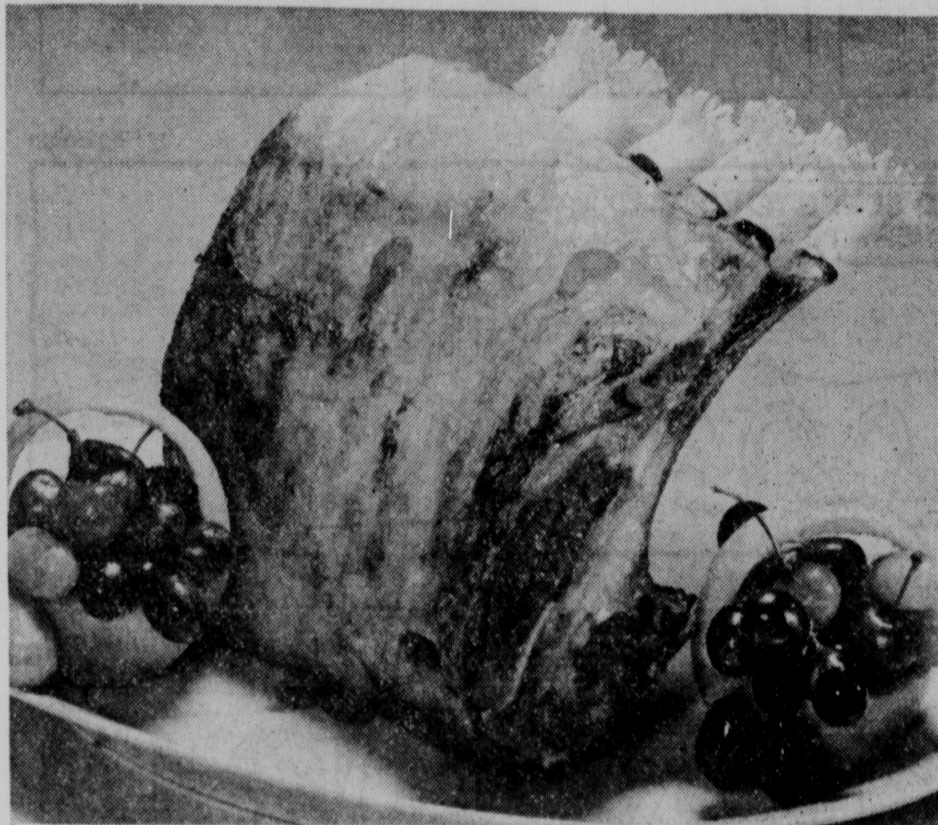

Belladonna realized that West's opening lead of the ten of clubs was more likely to be a singleton than a doubleton, and that in any case it was more advantageous to assume that declarer had four clubs rather than three. This reasoning not only brought him 50 points but also stopped South from making a part-score.

Lamb At Meat Counters A Sure Sign Of Spring

Spring brings thoughts of budding flowers, refreshing showers — and lamb at the meat counter.

Lamb is available year round in population centers, but many retail markets carry it only in the spring. This is when the demand for lamb is greatest, according to Ethel Diedrichsen, extension food and nutrition specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

"Lamb meat is from young sheep, usually less than one-year old. It has a smooth cover of clear, white brittle fat. The lean is pinkish to light red in color. The cut surface of bones is usually red and porous.

"A parchment-like tissue called fell covers the outer fat. The fell, which is sometimes removed from retail cuts, helps to keep the wholesale cuts fresh," Ms. Diedrichsen said. Many cuts of lamb are available. These include roasts, leg of lamb, lamb chops, lamb steaks and ground lamb.

Lamb should be cooked at a low temperature and should not be overcooked, according to the specialist. It can be roasted, broiled or panfried.

"Shanks, breasts and neck slices are especially tasty if braised or stewed," she added.

"Frozen lamb need not be thawed before cooking, but it requires extra cooking time. It can be partially thawed in the refrigerator before cooking," Ms. Diedrichsen said.

Mint jelly is a favorite garnish for lamb, according to Ms. Diedrichsen. Other garnishes include broiled pineapple, baked bananas, pears, peaches, stuffed prunes and minted apples.

"Cloves of garlic can be inserted into the roast before it is cooked. Chopped mint leaves in the stuffing or sour cream in the gravy are additional flavor flourishes for lamb," Ms. Diedrichsen said.

Large Part Of Food Price Due To Packaging Costs

For every dollar spent on food, 23 cents goes for processing and packaging, according to Janet Wilson, consumer education specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

"In some cases, processing alone accounts for over half the total price of the food. As for packaging, you sometimes pay more for the container than the farmer is being paid for the food itself," Ms. Wilson said.

The standard of living is partly to blame for the added costs, Ms. Wilson explained.

"Processing and packaging require labor, and our money pays for this labor. Rises in the standard of living mean higher wages for workers. So processing and packaging costs go up. This results in higher food prices at the supermarket."

Competition for sales among food companies is another reason for costly food packages, Ms. Wilson said.

"Every brand vies for more shelf space. They do it with fancy packaging, new items, expensive advertising, coupons, bonuses and sales gimmicks. They also use more processing for greater convenience to the chef. These all lead to higher food prices," Ms. Wilson explained.

Food processing is any treatment or preparation of the food before the consumer gets it, she said. This can mean anything from trimming and canning to frying and freezing.

"Some foods, such as eggs, undergo little processing," Ms. Wilson said.

Other foods are highly processed, she added.

"About half the cost of applesauce, canned tomatoes or catsup goes for processing."

A consumer's money is wisely spent for some highly processed foods, according to the specialist.

"We couldn't make cottage cheese or frozen orange juice as efficiently and cheaply as food processors.

"But with other foods we could avoid needless processing and save ourselves some money. For example, frozen vegetables in butter sauce are expensive. You could duplicate the dish for much less at home," she said.

Food packaging, though an added expense, has many benefits, Ms. Wilson said.

"But packaging is used as a means of selling the product. And the consumer ends up paying for this advertising," Ms. Wilson added.

Hobbies To Help Hospital Benefit

By GRACIA McANDREW
Star Staff Writer

When the "Mansions In May" St. Elizabeth Auxiliary benefit rolls around May 5, it will be highlighted by a new feature.

Of course, there will be all of the innovative items donated by auxiliary members for sale in the "Mini Boutique."

But there also will be wooden pot holders "Handcrafted by John (Love)," hanging pot holders "Designed by Lloyd (Behrens)" and bird house feeders "Created by Doc (Dr. Rudolph Meyer)."

All three men have claimed woodworking as their hobby, but they admit their craft has come in handy when it comes time to do remodeling in their homes.

For example, John B. Love has done everything from making tables, room dividers, lamp bases, adjustable standing lamps and custom-designed memorabilia boxes to finishing rooms in his home with paneling, carpet and wallpaper.

"There is no rhyme nor reason for it, just recreation is all," he said.

Working with wood "has been my hobby for 25 years," he added. "I started accumulating tools since before I was married. It is relaxation for me."

Love also has to his credit the construction of a five-room cottage on a lake near South Bend, which the family kept for 18 years. For a friend, he created a six-foot wide memorabilia box with more than 80 compartments. Like other, smaller memory boxes Love has made, this one featured a pitched roof with shake shingles. But to give it more character, he added a small outhouse replica with the traditional crescent moon cutout on the door and an old-fashioned lean-to shed.

"I built a little workshop in every house we had," Love said.

Constructed of redwood, Love's boutique pot holders display a bird house motif. Ideal for use indoors or outdoors, it can stand alone or can be hung. The pot holder features two shelves, each containing three, small clay pots.

Lloyd Behrens constructed his large, slatted hanging pot holder from white pine treated with a walnut stain.

"I happy to do it," Behrens said. "I just hope they sell."

Behrens, who has made 14 of the pot holders for the boutique, added, "If you were making them individually, it would take two and one-half or three hours each, but making them all together has cut that time considerably."

Like Love and Behrens, Dr. Rudolph Meyer has used his woodworking talents to make various articles for his home.

"It is quite a diversion," he said, adding that he has made 12 bird feeders for the boutique during his free evenings.

His wife suggested he make the bird houses for the auxiliary benefit, Meyer said. "It is amazing what you can get done if you put your mind to it, especially with a little coercion," he chuckled. "You need someone to prod you once in a while."

The "Mansions In May" benefit also will include a tour of nine Lincoln homes. The Mini Boutique will be held at the home of Joe R. Seacrest.

Other items to be sold at the boutique are a tote bag designed by June McCracken, a silk screen print by the Holy Spirit Adoration Sisters, geraniums, pottery, macrame pot hangers and crocheted "pot pants" to decorate clay pots.

Proceeds from the benefit will be used to purchase a kidney dialysis unit at St. Elizabeth.

Persons interested in buying tickets should write to Mrs. George Mechling, RFD 1, Lincoln 68502 or the Community Relations Office of St. Elizabeth Health Center.

Making Original Embroidery Designs Is Simple With Special 'Transfer Ink'

Your kindergartener's drawing of a clown, the sketch you made on your last vacation and the picture on this year's birthday card all have something in common.

Each is a possible embroidery design. Creating an original embroidery design is simple. And the following "ink" recipe eases the transfer process.

Just stir up the formula, brush it onto the design paper, let it dry and then iron it onto the fabric.

TRANSFER INK
1 teaspoon granulated sugar
1 tablespoon hot water
30 drops food coloring
Combine the sugar and water and stir until the sugar is dissolved. Choose a food color that will show up well on your fabric. Add the food coloring. Apply this "ink" to your picture using a broad-point pen or brush.

As you copy your design, remember it will show up in reverse on your fabric. If the color is too weak, add more food coloring to the mixture.

Allow a few minutes for the "ink" to dry on your design. Then iron your drawing onto your fabric. Use the "cotton" setting on your iron.

Once the picture is transferred, embroider it. The remaining "ink" will wash away easily.

Garden Market To Be Good One

New York (UPI) — Hardware dealers predict a strong season in garden merchandise, says Home Furnishings Daily.

The trade newspaper recently reported record preseason bookings for garden chemicals, hand tools and barbecue grills.

One wholesaler said many of his customers were asking for delivery of fertilizer, lawn care chemicals and insecticides.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMARR

Monday, March 29, 1976

I understand Gemini women, am mystified by Leo women, often clash with the Virgo fair sex, am captivated by Pisces, can be overwhelmed by Aries, have had no experience (that I remember) with Taurus, idealize Cancer, enjoy the company of the Libra woman, talk a lot about Scorpio but seldom do much, have no memory (ofhand) of the Sagittarius woman, get involved with Aquarius, and, somehow, I have a sinking feeling that this paragraph is going to mean trouble for me.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You examine possibilities for "advantageous position." You're backstage, behind the scenes and element of time is on your side. Cancer, Capricorn could figure prominently. Someone who sings the blues is telling tall stories. Be on guard!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Accent on desire, hopes, wishes, romantic interlude. Lines of communication open — you perceive potential. Gemini, Sagittarius could be in picture. You will be more active — and you will be stimulated by one who comprehends your goals, ideas.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Study Taurus message. Aim toward goal, despite those who harangue, complain and have a generally negative attitude. You are in position to create your own traditions. Refuse to be "bullied." You're going places!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Emphasis on distance, communication, publication. Written word takes on added stature, importance. Look ahead — compass broad horizons. Be ready for change, variety, travel opportunity. Acquaintance with long-range view important. Valuable suggestion.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): If you persist, if you set a goal and a price, you are very likely to succeed. Partner or mate could be involved in budget or purchase situation. Question concerning sale or purchase of home also might be spotlighted.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Obtain hint from Leo message. Be more realistic about money, security, people. Halt any tendency toward self-deception. See as, rather than through light of wishful thinking. Lie low. Wait, observe, father data. Legal matters, including partnership, marriage, are not to be ignored.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Keep pace moderate—avoid sensationalism. Maintain balance in connection with diet, work, health, special services. Get organized, bring priorities into focus. Production, display, responsibility — these crowd into spotlight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Good lunar aspect coincides now with creative changes, intensified relationship, reunion with young person. Added recognition comes your way. You complete project and you also take cold plunge into future. Be aware of potential — don't hang on to losing proposition.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Be practical enough to make a new start, to be more independent — and to appreciate opportunity for love. Obtain hint from Scorpio message. It is time to be more on your own, to stand tall for principles, to build on solid base.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Relatives and neighbors, ideas and short journeys blend to create whirlwind of activity. Family obligations could be regarded as "weight." But you also might get valuable backing from one who keeps the faith — in you. You'll understand!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Like many today, you will be concerned with financial matters. You're asked to "take a flyer" on long-range proposition. Key is to be sure, to correlate data, to protect valuables, to conserve and to prepare for immediate future.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You dance to your own tune. You become confident, in charge of your own destiny. Aquarius, Leo and Scorpio could be in picture. Fresh start; added independence — and romance — these areas are featured. Timing will be on target.

IF MARCH 29 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are a teacher, an intuitive, enthusiastic, sympathetic individual, willing to sacrifice for sake of those who sincerely want to learn. Aquarius play key roles in your life, along with Gemini and Leo. July will be your most significant month of 1976. You make new starts this year, will be creative and in love.

Swihart: Possibility Of Fire Keeps Officials Alert

Editor's Note — This is the first of a two-part series on safety conditions of horse barns at Fonner Park in Grand Island, Ak-Sar-Ben in Omaha and the State Fairgrounds in Lincoln.

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Could a deadly fire like the blaze that struck Narragansett Race Track occur at Fonner Park in Grand Island?

"Hell, yes, it could happen here . . . it could happen anywhere," said Fonner general manager Al Swihart. "We've never had anything that serious here, of course, but that's something that keeps you awake night."

The latest count shows 35 horses dead in a blaze that swept through two wooden stables last week at the East Providence, R.I., track. While arson was suspected, no evidence has been found to substantiate those claims, according to wire services reports.

But the question remains — how safe are the horse barns at Nebraska race tracks and what precautions are taken so the same tragedy does not occur at Fonner Park, Ak-Sar-Ben or the State Fairgrounds?

Swihart said a sprinkler system, which automatically activates water in case of fire, is installed in Fonner's indoor Big Red Barn. That is the only barn at Fonner with a sprinkler system.

It cost nearly $50,000 to install the sprinklers in the late 1960s when the Big Red barn was constructed. With costs drastically higher today, it would be prohibitive for Fonner to ever think about installing sprinklers in all the barns, Swihart said.

Nevertheless, Swihart isn't all that convinced that sprinklers are the sole answer to preventing the loss of horses in cases of fires.

"I contend this — you get a fire, and the sprinkler heads up in the roof go on when the fire gets that high. But eventually the whole barn is on fire before the sprinklers go on," he explained.

"Then the horses get hit by the water from the sprinklers. They go crazy, break out of their stalls. You might save the roof of the buildings, but I don't think you'd save many horses. You may save some, but not all of them.

"You can always replace some buildings, but it's hard to replace thoroughbreds that owners and trainers have invested years of time and thousands of dollars in," Swihart noted.

Swihart said investigators from the Nebraska State Fire Marshall's Office and from the Grand Island Fire Department conduct thorough inspections of the barn areas, noting all potential fire hazards.

Signs warning against no smoking are also posted, he said. The fire department personnel inspects the electrical wiring in the barns. "All those things are a good precaution against fire," Swihart said.

In fact, the Nebraska Rules of Racing (rule 3-4A) state "smoking in a stable or under the shed rows of the stable area is forbidden. Violators shall be subject to disciplinary action."

"We've done everything we can to prevent fires, but they still scare you," Swihart said. "Those things (the Narragansett fire) should alert people that those things can and do happen.

"It should especially be a warning to the people sleeping in the tack rooms that have heaters and other electrical devices. It's a miracle we haven't had more of those fires at tracks around the country," he added.

Swihart said Fonner's enclosed grandstand has been constructed with fireproof lumber and the roof is also fireproof.

"Still, you can never be overly safe," he added.

Speculation Increases

A caller from the Detroit Free Press claims that Nebraska basketball coach Joe Cipriano has become one of the finalists for the vacant head basketball position at Michigan State University.

In seeking background information on Cipriano, who just completed his 13th year at Nebraska, the caller said, "As I understand it, Cipriano has made the finals of between three and six.

"I think they (MSU officials) are seriously interested in Cipriano, although I don't know if he's been interviewed or not yet. The new athletic director doesn't come in until Thursday. The job here pays about $22,000 and with a television contract it's close to $30,000."

Jenison Fieldhouse in East Lansing originally could seat 11,000 to 12,000 patrons. But fire officials believed that was too crowded and reduced the fieldhouse's capacity to 9,000.

Cipriano has been out of Lincoln since Friday, attending the NCAA national basketball championships in Philadelphia.

"He (Cipriano) didn't seek the job. They called him," said a person close to the Nebraska basketball department. "I think it's a lot of premature speculation right now. There probably are 25 entries for the job."

Other Notes

Note to actor Telly Savalas, who was all brag after his Telly's Pop won the California Derby at Golden Gate Fields: Very few California colts are ever serious threats for the Kentucky Derby. The last real California standout was Majestic Prince, who won the 1969 classic.

Despite 7-5 favoritism Sunday at Santa Anita Park in the $157,700 Santa Anita Derby, Telly's Pop finished fifth.

"We are going all the way to Kentucky, baby," Savalas said recently. "We've got the best colt in the west and eventually we will have the best colt in the United States." That was after winning the California Derby. Now Telly's Pop has lost some of his glitter.

Note to McCook and Deshler quarterhorse interests: According to the McCook Gazette on March 13: Thompson (Dale, secretary-manager of the Red Willow County Fair Board) said since a story came out that there was a possible controversy he has been in contact with representatives from Deshler and both had agreed it was mainly a misunderstanding on the part of a Lincoln newspaper. Gentlemen: When the time comes that I can't even determine if there is a conflict with dates when they were clearly labeled on the application that both groups had submitted to the Nebraska State Racing Commission, that's the time I'll give up ponies for good.

As far as being upset with me for releasing the dates before the meeting, it proved (not any misunderstanding at all) that both groups were seeking some of the same dates. It's a good thing it came out before the meeting.

Only one group was going to get those conflicting dates. The racing commission has not granted conflicting thoroughbred dates and certainly wasn't going to grant conflicting dates to a quarterhorse operation.

Quarterhorse racing is the new game in Nebraska. But, as the date dispute indicated, it needs coordination on all parts before it can match the thoroughbred operations that have been going strong ever since Nebraska approved the pari-mutuel system in 1935. You don't build a top-flight product overnight.

And you also don't do it, by blaming newspaper reporters for revealing what was blatantly obvious to anyone even remotely connected with the racing industry.

Look for a few of runners at Oaklawn Park in Hot Springs, Ark., to be in stalls at Fonner Park in Grand Island after Oaklawn concludes its 50-day spring meet this Saturday. Some of the better horses will be likely starters in Fonner's featured attractions — the Nebraska Derby, the Fonner Mile and Fonner Handicap.

Among the 3-year-old fillies nominated for the $50,000 Kentucky Oaks is Bud Ogden's Triple Whirl, who captured the 1975 Expectation Stakes at Fonner Park.

The Oaks will be run on April 30 over a mile and 1/16th at Churchill Downs. It drew 111 nominations for its 102nd running.

Hoss Inman's Choice Doll is also nominated, but the early favorites' roles must go to Mrs. Bertram Firestone's Optimistic Gal and Richard E. Bailey's Dearly Precious.

Johnny Orr (right) coach of the Michigan basketball team wishes Indiana basketball coach Bobby Knight a good game in press conference in Philadelphia. The two teams will meet in the NCAA finals Monday night.

Coaches Play Presidential Game

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Michigan coach Johnny Orr was asked Sunday if he had received a telephone call from the White House congratulating him on a successful season.

"No, I received a call from Bobby Knight and he said he was the President," Orr quipped at the microphone.

"And he said, really?" chimed in Knight, the coach of unbeaten Indiana, who must face Orr's ninth-ranked Wolverines for the third time this season, this time in the NCAA basketball finals Monday night.

The Big 10 rivals may be battling for the highly-coveted national championship but at a news conference Sunday there was a lot of good-natured ribbing going on.

There was Orr, who punctuates his speech with expressions like "gee" and "goodness gracious," against Knight, a fiery perfectionist on the court but a quasi-serious speaker Sunday.

"Gee, I had three great years at Michigan and the people at the corner store still don't know me," Orr said. "I wish the pros would offer him (Knight) a contract and get him out of our league."

"Maybe after the season is over, their (Michigan's) athletic department will send Johnny and his wife on a trip to Europe," Knight said. "He really deserves it with the job he's done."

The fact that two Big 10 teams were in the finals was pleasing to both coaches.

"I think it's great you have two Big 10 teams here for the national championship," Orr said. "I don't think you'll see that again in a hurry."

"It's an indication of the kind of basketball we play in our league," Knight said of the final matchup.

"Michigan is the best team we've played all year. I think the best basketball teams in the country should be competing for the national championship and I think we have them here."

Top-ranked Indiana had to defeat Alabama and Marquette in the Midwest regional to make it to the semifinals and Orr was asked about Michigan's supposedly easy road to Philadelphia in the Midwest regional.

"Oh, I don't think it was so easy. We had to play the Missouri Valley winner, the Big Eight winner — and Notre Dame," he said with a gleam in his eye.

Then Knight whispered something to him. Orr returned to the microphone and added, "Oh, we didn't get to play any ACC (Atlantic Coast Conference) teams.

"Aw, heck, I'm happy for the Big 10, I'm happy for Michigan, and I'm happy for Johnny Orr."

Big 10 Powers Try Capturing NCAA Crown

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Will unbeaten Indiana be playing a game of Russian Roulette when it tries to win the national collegiate basketball championship Monday night against Michigan?

Coach Bobby Knight's Indiana team already has defeated Michigan twice, 80-74, and 72-67 in overtime, en route to the Big Ten Conference title and the NCAA championship tournament. Is it possible that the third time the chamber will be loaded?

Knight said "no" when the question was presented. The Indiana coach offered a simple opinion on the outcome of the nationally televised championship game.

"It depends on how well each team plays when the ball is thrown in the air. The team that does the things that it does best for 40 minutes will win," Knight told a crowded news conference Sunday.

Knight quoted former Oklahoma football Coach Bud Wilkinson to the effect that it doesn't matter who you play, but how well you play up to your potential. The scoreboard will reflect whether you played to your potential.

Indiana, ranked No. 1 in the nation, has won 31 games without a loss, and is at least a five-point favorite to beat No. 9 rated Michigan and win the Hoosiers' third NCAA basketball title. Indiana won in 1940 and 1953.

The Hoosiers advanced to the final with tournament victories over St. John's, Alabama, Marquette and defending champion UCLA. Over the past two seasons they have posted a 61-1 record, losing 92-90 to Kentucky in a 1975 NCAA regional title game.

Michigan, coached by balding Johnny Orr, is one of just five teams to appear in the last three NCAA tournaments. The Wolverines reached this year's title game by ousting Wichita State, Notre Dame, Missouri and Rutgers. Orr's team has a 25-6 record and finished second to Indiana in the Big Ten.

Knight says of the ninth-ranked Wolverines, "I think Michigan is the best team we've played. They do so many things so well that you have to do to play this game well. We've played a lot of teams you people (the media) rate higher. So we must be pretty good."

Orr was asked if he was looking forward to playing Indiana for a third time. "You must think I'm nutty," replied the glib-tongued Michigan coach.

Orr was asked if he thought his team could beat Indiana.

"I'd be a fool if I didn't think we can win," Orr responded. "I don't know how, but I think we can."

Orr observed that Indiana had won 23 in a row in the Big Ten and was the only team to beat Michigan on the Wolverines' home court in Ann Arbor, Mich., in three years. Their meeting in the NCAA final will mark the first championship game between two schools from the same conference in the tourney's history.

This year's overtime game between the two rivals was at Bloomington. Indiana tied it at the buzzer on a tap-in by All-American Kent Benson.

"We've got to play better than when we played them at Bloomington if we hope to win," Orr said.

Orr, who was voted Coach of the Year Sunday by the National Association of Basketball Coaches, admitted that he was tired of congratulating Knight.

"I've had three great seasons at Michigan, and people down at the store don't even know who I am," he lamented.

Orr wasn't keeping his game plan secret.

He said he planned to match Phil Hubbard against Indiana's Benson; Wayman Britt against All-American Scott May, and Johnny Robinson, hero of Saturday's 86-70 semifinal triumph over previously unbeaten Rutgers, against Tom Abernethy. Michigan will have Rickey Green and Steve Grote out front. Orr said Green, 6-foot-2 junior guard from Chicago, is the key for the Wolverines.

"He (Green) will have to play very, very well, if we're to win," Orr said.

Connors Rallies To Top Tanner

Palm Springs, Calif. (UPI) — "Jimmy Connors plays tougher when he's behind," said Roscoe Tanner Sunday after Connors had stormed back from two 4-1 deficits to win the $200,000 American Airlines Tennis Tournament at Mission Hills Country Club over Tanner 6-4, 6-4.

"I didn't have any pressure on me in any set when I fell behind 4-1," said Connors after picking up a $35,000 paycheck. "In both instances I thought I had lost the set, so I felt I had nothing to lose."

Connors' overall consistency and blistering groundstrokes were the difference as both players had to battle winds gusting up to 35 miles an hour.

"It was a non-rhythm wind," said Connors. "No matter what side I was on it seemed the wind was never consistent. The sand was swirling around and the ball was doing stutter steps."

"I think the wind equalized our play. It was just a matter of who made the most mistakes," said Connors, a loser of only two matches (both to Ilie Nastase) this season in his quest to regain his title as the world's top ranked player.

Arthur Ashe, who lost to Tanner in the semifinals was ranked No. 1 in the world last year.

"A challenge match with Arthur is something I think everyone would like to see," said Connors, a winner of three such matches in Las Vegas, Nev.

"I know I'd like to see it come about and there has been some talk, but I just don't know at this point."

Tanner, who won $17,500, said it was "the toughest wind conditions I've ever played in. The soft return was harder to handle because it stuttered. I missed some easy volleys because the ball kept jumping."

"I felt a little bit like I let him off the hook today, but he's just so tough to nail down. I played well to get to 4-1 in both sets, but then I started making mistakes," said Tanner.

The match was not without controversy. Both players asked for one of the linesmen to be removed after a number of close calls on serves that had been called out. Officials refused to make the change, however

Five-Stroke Triumph

Green Takes Third — Easily

HILTON HEAD, S.C. (UPI) — Hubert Green hadn't intended to play it safe Sunday. But when he saw his closest pursuer, with an early triple bogey "I knew I could take it easy."

That's exactly what Green did as he coasted to his third straight pro golf victory, a fivestroke triumph in the Heritage Golf Classic, to set a tour record by winning $118,000 in just three weeks.

"The leader board was just behind the green on No. 2," said Green. "When I saw that Bob Murphy had dropped from 8 under to 5 under, I couldn't believe it. I saw him miss a putt, but I never dreamed it meant a triple bogey 8."

Green started off with a bogey Sunday "because I hit a thin putt," got that stroke back with a 40-foot putt at No. 6 for his only birdie of the day; then bogeyed two of the next five holes before paring in for his victory.

"I was concerned with Hubert Green, no one else out there," said Green. "But I wasn't playing some shots as well as I normally play them."

"I didn't play very good golf, but, then, no one made me play good golf. When I saw Murphy's 8 at No. 2, I knew I had the tournament won."

"It was very enjoyable out there. I'm not as tired as I thought I was."

The 29-year-old Birmingham, Ala., pro picked up $43,000 to go with the $35,000 he earned by winning last week's Greater Jacksonville Open and the $40,000 he got the previous week for winning the Doral Open at Miami.

Green coasted to victory with a two-over-par 73 in the final round, for a four-day total of 10-under 274.

Jerry McGee, the winner of last year's Pensacola Open for his only tour victory in almost a decade, slipped into second place by shooting a three-under-par 68 for a five-under 279. That was worth $24,500 to McGee, less than $500 less than he got for winning at Pensacola.

Green started Sunday's play with a four-stroke lead over then-runnerup Bob Murphy, who quickly fell out of contention with a triple bogey on the second hole. Green was never seriously challenged during the sunny final round of the $215,000 tournament.

Hale Irwin, the two-time Heritage champion and leading money winner until Green passed him, was tied for third with Don January and Gibby Gilbert.

Defending champion Jack Nicklaus was in second place briefly during the final round but couldn't hold the pace and closed with a 73-282, eight strokes behind the winner.

Green beat Nicklaus by six strokes at Doral and won by two strokes by last week when Nicklaus did not play at Jacksonville.

Murphy soared to a 76 in the final round, winding up at 281 with Graham Marsh, Andy North, Lanny Wadkins and Kermit Zarley.

Tom Weiskopf, who finished second to Nicklaus here last year, was in at 283, along with South African Gary Player and Lee Trevino. Johnny Miller, another two-time heritage winner, finished far back in the pack at 288 and Ben Crenshaw, the only golfer besides Green to have won back-to-back tournaments this year, was at 289.

Green was not in his usual cheerful mood Sunday. He had been reporting for two days that the constant battle for the lead had tired him and he showed that fatigue as he played his round grimly, seldom breaking into his familiar smile.

But there was a big grin on Green's face as the huge crowd which was gathered around the final hole gave him a thunderous ovation as he walked up to the green. He had a 20-foot putt that would have put him 11 under, but simply rolled the ball up close to the cup and tapped it in.

Green had said after shooting a 66 in Saturday's third round to go 12 under for the tournament that he could not afford to "play it safe" Sunday "because four-stroke leads have a way of slipping away from you on this golf course."

But that's what he appeared to be doing Sunday when he made three bogeys and only one birdie in a conservative round.

McGee had been tied for 10th at the start of the round, 10 strokes behind Green, but said he never gave that deficit a thought.

"I think it was pretty well conceded that Hubert was going to win again, but there are a lot of other spots out here, a lot of money to be won," said McGee. "However, I must admit I was a bit embarrassed to be out there, the way Hubert has been playing." Green's victory, his 11th in less than six full years on the PGA tour, raised his earnings for the year to more than $132,000 and brought his career earnings to nearly $660,000.

Green played the last three tournaments in a total of 40 under par.

Carew Signs Contract

Rod Carew
Three-Year Pact

Rod Carew, five-time American League batting champion, agreed to a three-year contract with the Minnesota Twins, reportedly for a total of about $500,000.

Carew was seeking $175,000 this season and it was believed he agreed to a pact calling for somewhere between $150,000 and $170,000 for each of the 1976-77-78 seasons.

He is the first Twin other than manager Gene Mauch to have a three-year contract.

"This removes the pressure from me," Carew said. "I can concentrate on playing baseball and not have to worry about playing out my option this season."

Kusnyer Leads Alma To Crown

Barneston — Former Kansas State star Ernie Kusnyer uncorked a 20-foot jump shot at the buzzer Sunday night to give Alma (Kan.) Hotel a 109-108 victory over Banker's Life and the championship of the ninth annual Barneston Invitational Semi-Pro Basketball Tournament.

Kusnyer, who graduated from K-State a year ago, scored 24 points to lead Alma past the two-time defending champion Banker's Life.

Tournament MVP Chuckie Williams of Kansas State led Alma with 34 points, but the guard missed Tom Scantlebury's tourney record of 122 points by two.

Kusnyer's game-winner gave Alma its first finals victory after two previous championships.

Youngsters Win Gymnastic Titles

NEW YORK (AP) — Bart Conner, a suburban Chicago high school student, celebrated his 18th birthday Sunday by beating some of the world's best men and winning the American Cup international gymnastics competition at Madison Square Garden.

Nadia Comaneci, Romania's 14-year-old European champion who is ranked No. 1 in the world, won the women's division. Kathy Howard, 18, of Oklahoma City, Okla., was second, and a little Soviet surprise, 4-foot-7, 72-pound Elena Davydova, was third.

Miss Comaneci, awarded a rare perfect 10 points in Saturday's preliminaries of the sidehorse vault, got another 10 on Sunday in the floor exercise and compiled an incredible 39.70 points of a possible 40. Miss Howard, who flew in from her home early Friday to replace the injured Ann Carr of Philadelphia, was second with 38.15 points. Miss Davydova had 36.85.

Regazzoni Captures U.S. Grand Prix West

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — A blood-red Ferrari was the first to cross the finish line again Sunday, but it wasn't the one driven by world-driving champion Niki Lauda.

Switzerland's mustachioed Clay Regazzoni, the second-banana on the Ferrari factory team, scored a wire-to-wire victory over Lauda in a two-man show in the first U.S. Grand Prix West through the streets of downtown Long Beach.

"I was very confident I could win this race," Regazzoni said. "I got a good start. After that, it was just a matter of finishing."

"No, I wasn't surprised. I felt very confident throughout the race." Asked if he felt the slow track favored his 12-cylinder Ferrari, which accelerates strongly out of the corners, Regazzoni replied, "It's a good car on any track. It was good enough to win on the fast tracks in Brazil and South Africa. I don't feel the track was any factor."

Lauda said his primary objective Sunday was finishing, not winning. "I had a lot of problems in practice," he said. "I wanted to be sure I finished the race. I was driving to finish, not to win."

Regazzoni, who did not finish in the South African Grand Prix and was seventh in Brazil — the first two Formula One racers this year, started on the pole, took the lead going into turn one and never looked back.

Lauda, Ferrari's No. 1 driver, made a move after the 50th lap but never was able to get closer than 12 seconds.

Goolagong Wins 2nd Straight

BOSTON (UPI) — Cool and calm Evonne Goolagong trounced temperamental Virginia Wade 6-2, 6-0 Sunday to win her second straight title, the $75,000 Virginia Slims of Boston tennis tournament.

The victory netted $15,000 for Goolagong, winner of four Slims tournaments this season. Wade, who has reached the finals three times in 1976 only to lose to Goolagong on each occasion, received $8,000.

In the doubles finals, the top-seeded pair of Mona Guerrant of Phoenix and Ann Kiyomura of San Francisco rebounded from first set problems to down Francoise Durr and Casals, 3-6, 6-1, 7-5. The winners split $5,000 and the losers shared $2,450.

Goolagong won the seventh game on a towering, court-length lob that landed on the baseline. Wade, waiting to return the ball, did not swing because she felt the shot was long.

When the linesman called it good, she stomped her foot, screamed an obscenity and sat

Valdes Knocks Out Cohen

Paris (AP) — Rodrigo Valdes of Colombia retained his world middleweight boxing title at the Pavillon de Paris Sunday night when Max Cohen of France raised his right hand, signalling he had had enough in the fourth round.

Cohen, seeming dazed and confused, said after the fight that Referee Marcello Bertino of Italy had misunderstood his gesture of raising his hand.

His mouth bloody, Cohen said, "All I wanted to do was to go in my corner. The referee disgusted me. It wasn't Valdes who beat me but the referee. He started disgusting me when he counted me when I only slipped the round before."

Cohen was booed and whistled at when he left the ring by the French fans who had cheered him wildly during the first two rounds. The slipping incident Cohen referred to came in the third round when the Frenchman went to the canvas.

Cohen got up and waved at the referee that he had slipped, but Bertini counted until seven.

Barely 15 seconds later, Valdes scored a clean knockdown on a right hook. Cohen got up at the count of six.

In the finalround of the scheduled 15-rounder, Cohen seemed weakened and had a large welt under his left eye.

Valdes knocked his mouthpiece out and waited for a spot to finish the Frenchman.

Boston Clinches Division

BOSTON (UPI) — John Havlicek and Paul Silas netted two free-throws apiece in the last 53 seconds Sunday afternoon as the Boston Celtics copped their fifth straight Atlantic Division title with a 100-94 victory over the New York Knicks.

The game was the 1,100th NBA appearance for Havlicek, who is 22 games shy of Hal Greer's endurance mark.

The Knicks, down by 13 points early in the fourth quarter 86-73, fought back to within two points, 96-94, on hot shooting of Earl Monroe and Spencer Haywood.

The Celtics were down by three points midway through the third quarter, 71-68, but Havlicek, Dave Cowens and Jo Jo White led a 16-2 burst in the last 4:06 minutes to give the Celtics a 84-73 lead at the beginning of the fourth quarter.

Omahan Ousted In Gloves

Miami (AP) — Omaha's Lamont Kirkland was disqualified for holding in the 165-pound division and lost the national Golden Gloves title to Michael Spinks of St. Louis as the week-long nationals ended at the Orange Bowl.

In other bouts, Bernard Taylor, a 19-year-old Charlotte, N.C., bantamweight, was named the outstanding fighter of the tournament.

Taylor and welterweight champion Clinton Jackson gave their team from Knoxville a one-point victory over St. Louis in the team competition.

Taylor gained a unanimous decision over Chicago high school student Wayne Lynnum, and Jackson took a unanimous decision over 147-pounder Bruce Curry of Fort Worth, Tex.

Meanwhile, Pan-Am silver medalist Aaron Pryor of Cincinnati beat Thomas Hearns of Detroit for the 132-pound title; Louis Curtis of Washington gained a split decision over Israel Acosta of Milwaukee in the 106-pound final, and Rick Jester of Detroit stopped Reginald Phillips of Los Angeles for the 178-pound championship.

Don Carbin of St. Louis scored a unanimous decision over Willie Taylor of Charlotte in the 156-pound class; Ronnie Shields of Fort Worth gained a unanimous decision over Lemuel Steeples of East St. Louis at 139 pounds, and Julie Rodrigues of Hawaii posted a unanimous decision over Bobby Davis of Jackson, Tenn., at 112 pounds.

In the heavyweight division, Michael Dokes of Cleveland won a split decision over Woody Clark of Miami.

Teamsters Members Authorize Strike

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP) — Early results of weekend voting by 400,000 Teamsters indicated overwhelming authorization for a strike that could bring the nation's trucks to a halt, union officials said Sunday.

Bargaining in the trucking talks was suspended late last week until Monday, but both industry and union sources were hopeful of settlement before midnight Wednesday when the current National Master Freight Agreement expires. The pact covers drivers that move nearly 60% of the country's manufactured goods.

Rank-and-file truckers meeting at union halls across the country, however, were expected to turn down what they considered a meager industry offer of 85 cents more an hour and an $11-a-week hike in fringe benefits over 39 months.

Industry and union negotiating teams, headed by Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons and Trucking Employers, Inc., president William G. McIntyre, currently differ by 90 cents an hour on salary, sources say.

The employers' package amounts to a 20% increase in wages and benefits over 39 months, but Teamsters, demanding $1.75 hike in wages and $17 more in pension and health-welfare benefits, want an increase of at least 30% over three years.

Wages for truckers now vary from $7.18 to $7.33 an hour.

Also at issue are additional mileage pay for long-haul drivers and cost-of-living adjustments.

In Detroit, where members of Local 299's cartage division voted 898 to 24 and steel hauling division members voted 160 to 18 to reject the employers' latest contract offer and authorize a strike, truckers predicted almost unanimous rejection nationally.

"They'll get a strike vote," said Teamsters member Paul Halface. "No question about it. We have lost so much in the past contract you wouldn't believe it."

Long-haul drivers of Local 337, also in Detroit, spurned the offer 99 to 1, while construction site Teamsters of Local 247 voted 38 to 5 against the offer and for a strike. Members of St. Louis Local 600 followed suit, turning down the offer by a margin of more than 9 to 1, union officials said.

As more results trickled in Sunday, the voting appeared to be following expectations. Teamsters Local 25 in Boston voted 1,060 to 162 to reject the contract.

In another development, the Pittsburgh chapter of the Fraternal Association of Steel Haulers, a 5,000-member group nationwide that has asked the National Labor Relations Board

Vail Ski Lift Accident Claims Fourth Victim

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — A fourth person died Sunday from injuries suffered when two cars on an aerial ski lift plunged more than 100 feet to the ground on Vail Mountain.

Three skiers died on Friday from head, neck or back injuries suffered in the accident. Steve Meoli, 18, a Colorado State University student from Wayland, Mass., died Sunday at St. Anthony Hospital in Denver, officials said.

"It's a young cable, a young rope," Bradley said. "A track rope should last longer than that. A half-year decent track rope should last 20 years."

Bradley said 10 to 15 feet of the top cable on the two-cable lift system frayed just below Tower 4, halfway up the mountain. He said it was likely the frayed "track" cable, a steel cable nearly two inches thick, led to the derailment. But he said three cars had passed by Tower 5 further up the mountain just before the accident.

After three cars passed over Tower 5, another car — the first to fall — apparently jammed and its superstructure "shredded off," Bradley said. The second car to fall landed upside down.

R.W. Parker, senior vice president of corporate relations for Vail Associates, said the lift system was opened on Dec. 10, 1969, and received annual spring checks following initial inspection. The last state inspection was conducted in September, Parker said.

He said Wire Rope Industries Ltd. of British Columbia conducted an x-ray examination of the entire length of both cables last May and found no irreparable flaws.

He said the cable system was constructed by Bell Engineering Works Ltd. of Switzerland and that there have been no accidents similar to Friday's on such a system in 30 years.

Steve Bradley, chairman of the Colorado Passenger Tramway Safety Board, said Saturday that the accident was caused by a frayed portion of cable on the lift. On Sunday, Bradley said investigators were puzzled by the fact that the cable was only seven years old and had been inspected by X ray less than a year ago.

St. Anthony officials said Sunday they had released another injured skier, Ira Pothashner, 44, of New York City, and that the six others hospitalized there were improving. One injured skier was hospitalized in Vail.

Meoli was one of nine persons injured when their gondolas derailed and fell to the ground. Two other cars on the 69-car lift dangled precariously from the cable until passengers were rescued by the ski patrol. Each gondola can carry six passengers, but officials were not sure how many skiers were on the lift at the time of the accident.

Ed Taylor, 18, of Omaha and West Point's Doris Haggard, 17, both seniors, won all-expense paid trips to the International Science and Engineering Fair at Denver, Colo. May 9-15.

Taylor, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Riddennou, claimed first place with his exhibit "Curves of Constant Width as Rotars."

Taylor also won a $2,250 David Hawksworth Memorial Scholarship to the College of Engineering and Technology at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Miss Haggard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Haggard, won second place with her exhibit "Recycled Soap."

Renee Earl, 17, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex D. Earl and a student at Omaha Northwest, also received a $2,250 Hawksworth scholarship. She displayed a project entitled "A Determination of the Degree of Consistency of Musical Intervals."

Some 100 senior high and 139 junior high school students participated in the two-day event.

The top honor in the junior high division went to two students from Hooper Logan View, Gary Sibley and Alfred Greeley.
